LOTS OF FIREMEN, NO FIRE

PRESIDENT NAMES PANEL FOR PROBE

Chief Justice Warren Will Head Group Looking Into Assassination Of Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson has named a top-level panel to investigate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy so that the nation, the world and history will know the facts.

That was Johnson's mandate to the special presidental commission named last night. He chose Chief Justice Earl Warren to head it.

Johnson was understood to be determined to avoid multipule inquiries that could cloud the facts about the murder of Kennedy in Dallas a week ago Friday and the shooting two days later of the man police charged with killing the president.

The new president said he had chosen the commission "to study and report upon all facts and circumstances relating to the assassination of the late President John F. Kennedy and the subsequent violent death of the man charged with the assassination."

That man was Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, a self-styled Marxist. Oswald, accused of shooting the president from ambush as Kennedy motored through downtown Dallas, was himself gunned down in the city police station last Sunday as he was about to be transferred to the county jail.

A night club operator named Jack Ruby has been indicted for the point-blank shooting of Oswald.

In addition to Warren, Johnson named these six to the commission: Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.); Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Key.); Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La); Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.); former Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen W. Dulles, and onetime disamament negotiator John J. McCloy.

The president signed an executive order authorizing the commission to subpoena witnesses and granting it other powers it might need to investigate.

Johnson talked with each member of the commission before announcing its creation. He set no time limit on its inquiry, and White House sources said Warren will decide when the commission will go to work.

Boggs had proposed a bill to set up a House-Senate committee to investigate the slaying. It was one of a handful of measures calling for special committee inquiries into the assassination of Kennedy and the shooting of Oswald.

However last night Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee which had made preliminary plans for an investigation, said: "You couldn't have a Senate investigation and a presidential commission at the same time. I favor what the president is doing."

A court of inquiry convened by Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr also will look into the case.

118 Die In Crash Of Jet Airliner

Worst Canadian Disaster

STE. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (AP) — A four-engine Canadian jetliner plunged to earth in driving rain last night, killing 118 persons.

The crash was the worst in Canadian aviation history and the world's second worst single plane disaster. All the dead — 111 passengers and a crew of seven — were believed to be Canadians.

FOUR MINUTES

The crash occurred just four minutes after the Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8 jet took off in heavy wind and rain from Montreal's Dorval Airport on a 300-mile flight to Toronto.

Eyewitnesses disagreed whether the plane exploded in the air or after plowing into a muddy field outside Ste. Therese de Blainville, a factory town 250 miles north of Montreal.

The plane dug a crater at least 90 feet wide and six feet deep.

SEARCH STARTS

Rescuers began searching for bodies this morning. Bodies and wreckage were strewn over at least a quarter-mile.

Airline officials expressed doubt about determining the cause of the crash by the usual piece-by-piece reconstruction of the plane. The government immediately ordered an investigation.

A Trans-Canada spokesman said there was no question of sabotage.

TERRIFIC NOISE

The plane crashed at 6:32 p.m. (EST). Witnesses heard a terrific noise — "like an atomic bomb," some said — and saw a red ball of fire. The wreckage burned for two hours.

The plane hit 800 feet from a row of houses along Highway 11, crashing midway between the road and an expressway to the Laurentian Mountains a resort area north of Montreal.

"I heard this immense explosion," he said. "It sounded like an atomic bomb. My car radio went out of commission.

"I don't remember seeing the plane at all. I just heard the loud crash. I ran to the scene and all I could see was a mass of fire."

At first much of the plane's mud-splattered fuselage appeared intact, but it was quickly consumed by fire. Identification of the place remained uncertain until a rescuer found a life jacket with the airline's monogram on it.

The worst single civilian plane crash occurred in Paris in June, 1960, when an Air France jet went down, killing 130 persons.

IF CULTURAL

Russian Visitors Are Not Banned

The Russians are members of the Institute of Soviet-American Relations. They are on a tour of the United States and, according to a spokesman, had planned to visit the famous redwoods in Marin on their first day in California.

But they apparently never crossed the bridge after arriving in San Francisco, for officials at the national monument have no record of the visit and said they saw no sign of any Russians.

Travel ban impositions for Marin would not have applied to these Russians, for State Department spokesmen said cultural exchange delegations are exempt from the restrictions applied to embassy members and other "official" Soviet representatives.

Evidently this ruling could apply to Mrs. Irena Cherchepskoya, permitting her to accept the invitation of the 22 Marinites she guided on a tour of Russia last year. Mrs. Cherchepskoya was invited to visit Marin County, but so far has not replied to the invitation.

If her visit would be designated a cultural exchange visit, the State Department would be compelled to make the same exception it was ready to make for the 17 Russians Thursday.

The travel ban included several counties where there are military installations.

Dr. Nikolai Blokhin, a member of the group and president of the Soviet Academy of Medical Sciences, told reporters yesterday he was impressed with "the enormous desire of Americans to improve Russian-United States relations."

A public reception for the Russians will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francisco. They will leave for Los Angeles tomorrow.

Coed, 19, Dies From Injuries In Accident

Patricia Ann Helm, 19-year-old pre-medical student at College of Marin, died yesterday afternoon in a San Francisco hospital from injuries received in a car-pedestrian accident Wednesday.

She never regained consciousness, Letterman General Hospital reported. The body was taken yesterday to San Francisco coroner's office for a routine autopsy.

Miss Helm, who resided with a brother, Jerrell Helm, 601 San Jose Boulevard, Ignacio, was struck by a car while attempting to cross the intersection of Highway 101 and Entrada Drive in Ignacio.

Driver of the car, Russell Dale Johnson, 22, of 15 Elisio Drive, Larkspur, and witnesses said the girl stepped in front of the vehicle. She sustained concussion, skull fracture and multiple internal injuries. Johnson was not cited.

A native of Colorado, she was born Jan. 23, 1944. She came to California last April and was a freshman at the college. She was a member of the Church of Christ in Pueblo, Colo.

Other survivors are two brothers, Tommy, of San Diego, and Jerry, Hollywood; two sisters, Mrs. Willie Randall, Marion, Ind., and Donna Helm, Kingman, Ariz.; and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Helm, also of Kingman.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

The death brings the year's total of traffic fatalities in Marin County to 30. There were 24 this time last year.

Ship Sinks In Storm — Four Perish

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — The Navy today picked up the only survivor from a surplus Coast Guard cutter which caught fire in a raging storm and sank with five persons aboard while rescue planes circled helplessly overhead.

The 83-foot former cutter Judy was purchased about a month ago by Armand Colberg, a 63-year-old California truck line owner who "wanted to get back to the sea."

Colberg, of Long Beach, and his 62-year-old wife died when the ship sank on its maiden voyage last night. So did the radioman, identified only as "Jim," and George Donald Kidd, 21, of Paramount, Calif., another crewman.

A searchlight aboard the submarine rescue ship Petrel spotted Robert Stanton, 33, of Norfolk, Va., held barely out of the waves by his lifejacket about midnight. Near him, floating face down, was the body of Kidd, who died half an hour before help came.

Help For Cuba

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — The official Indonesian news agency Antara reported today that the Indonesian Communist Party donated $150 to aid the victims of hurricane Flora in Cuba.

DON'T TAKE, GIVE DRAKE FAIR SHAKE

Henry, a mallard duck, is missing from his pond on a Ross estate, and his owners want him back "before he ends up on somebody's dinner table."

Mrs. Noble Hamilton of Lagunitas Road said Henry wandered off down the road yesterday and two children said later they saw "two men pick him up."

"We want very much to have him back," Mrs. Hamilton said. Henry's mate, Henrietta, wants him back, too. "She is frantic," said Mrs. Hamilton.

Pickets March Again In Front Of Realty Firm

CORE began picketing the real estate firm Nov. 16 to protest alleged racial discrimination. Apartments were offered by the firm to whites but not to Negroes, according to CORE.

"We attempted once again to settle the problem," said Douglas Quiett, Marin CORE chairman, "but our demands have not been met. Our housing committee chairman, Loren Bock, met yesterday with Julius H. Selinger, attorney for Mrs. Mat Walburn, and no agreement was reached.

"There have been questions about such a peaceful demonstration so soon after last week's national tragedy. But the real estate people are not stopping their business, and we cannot stop our picketing."

Pickets will continue to walk at the real estate office at 90 East Blithedale Avenue tomorrow from 11 a.m. till dusk, Quiett said.

Curb On Mail Order Guns Gets Backing

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Leading California outdoorsmen today said they generally favored legislation to control mail order purchases of firearms—as long as it was not "to restrictive."

Meanwhile, moves were afoot to propose additional firearms controls during next year's state legislative session.

Whether California sportsmen would back the state legislation would depend on the specific bill. But many fish and game leaders said they saw nothing basically wrong with a current measure by U.S. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, (D-Conn.), to restrict the sale of mail order guns.

The Dodd bill would prohibit shipment of firearms to localities where they were not permitted, and to minors and convicted felons. The senator also has pledged to strengthen the measure even further.

One Californian, however, said he was "quite disturbed about the hysteria" among firearms restriction advocates since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy with a $12.78 Italian Carcano rifle bought from a Chicago mail order house.

"I don't think right now is a particularly good time to ramrod through some legislation without having adequate opportunity to consider it," said Don Flournoy, of New Cuyama, president of the California Wildlife Federation.

"The original bill didn't seem to be too bad, but I don't think it will stop there. And the laws aren't going to bother the criminals — they're only going to bother the honest people."

Another outdoorsman, Julius Von Nostitz, of San Francisco, secretary of the Associated Sportsmen of California, said "I'm just speaking off the cuff, but I believe the organized sportsmen would be in favor of such legislation."

'City Of Marin Is Far Off'

A "City and County of Marin" may not be quite as imminent as a news headline might have inferred in the Nov. 22 issue of the "County Supervisors Assn. of California News," Administrator Alan Bruce explained today.

Bruce is quoted as saying "the expressed ultimate aim is a City and County of Marin, the immediate program to be shorter range steps." The article is headlined "A City and County of Marin?"

In talking to officials of the County Supervisors Assn. of California, Bruce said he did mention that the county is working on the possibility of cutting down on the number of taxing districts to eliminate duplication. During one of the conversations, he probably said that among long range goals is the possibility of a City and County of Marin. This possibility has been described as a "long range" goal by Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker.

Several months ago, the supervisors asked Bruce, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell and County Counsel E. Warren McGuire to study possible consolidation of various districts. A multiple governmental unit study committee has been formed to look into the possibility of reducing the number of districts.

Quint Goes Home

ABERDEEN, S. D. (UPI) — The first of the Fischer quintuplets went home from the hospital today, 11 weeks to the day since their historic birth. James Andrew, the only boy of the brood, was carried from St. Luke's Hospital in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer.

Russia Imports

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow radio reported today the Soviet Union has imported 2,000 mink from the United States.

Fatal Crash Blackout To Get State Probe

Melvin Walton, 37, of San Francisco, a Sausalito School District janitor whose blackout caused a fatal crash on the Golden Gate Bridge Thursday, became the cause of a State Department of Motor Vehicles strong complaint today.

The DMV wanted to know why Walton's doctor had not reported that the man had a history of blackouts.

Walton previously had been involved in five accidents, two in Marin County and three in San Francisco. A victim of polio, he is licensed to operate a car with an automatic transmission.

DMV Director Tom Bright said in Sacramento today that he has ordered a re-examination of Walton to test his ability to drive.

"If he can pass, we'll still have a look at him to see what caused the blackout," Bright said.

Killed in the Thanksgiving crash was Louis Even, 60, of 82 Meadow Road, Mill Valley. Five others were injured and traffic was blocked for more than half an hour.

Walton, whose car swerved into the path of the car driven by Joseph John Coscia, 53, of 13 Bay Vista Drive, Strawberry, said afterward that he did not remember what happened.

A DMV spokesman in San Francisco said the law requires doctors to report victims of blackouts to the department.

Glass In Russ Wheat Due Probe

WINNIPEG (AP)—The government of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson is planning a full investigation to determine how ground glass got into three million bushels of wheat shipped to the Soviet Union.

The wheat was part of the 239 million bushels sold to the Soviet Union by Canada in a record 500-million-dollar transaction earlier this year.

Howard A. Mann, Canadian Harbors Board chairman, said last night Soviet reports of the glass are "somewhat exaggerated" but that there is "some evidence that fragments of bottle glass have been found in grain exported this year from a number of Canadian ports to various countries."

Frank Hamilton, Canadian Wheat Board chief commissioner, believes the glass came from beer and soft drink bottles discarded by longshoremen who were on strike last month.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Kennedy Remains In Seclusion

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—A pall of sorrow hung over this Cape Cod seaside resort today where Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of the assassinated president, remains secluded with her parents-in-law and other members of the bereaved Kennedy family.

The rain forced cancellation of a plan to take a dozen or so grandchildren of former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy to the town's Memorial Skating Rink.

The mother of the late president drove to Boston to see her mother, Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, 94. The latter has not been told of the assassination.

Postal officials reported they had handled more than 150,000 letters of condolence, and Western Union said that thousands of telegrams had been received.

Searchers To Comb Hills For Coed

BERKELEY (AP)—More than 200 searchers will comb the hills behind Berkeley and Oakland tomorrow in a renewed effort to find the body of University of California coed Judith Williamson or some clue to her disappearance.

Sheriff's deputies will cover the area from the south end of Tilden Regional Park to the Roberts Area of Redwood Regional Park.

The 18-year-old coed vanished Oct. 29 on the way from her Albany home to catch a bus for classes at U.C.'s Berkeley campus. This will be the third search launched during a month of intensive police investigation to discover her whereabouts.

Menzies Wins Smashing Victory

The Liberal-Country Party coalition led by Menzies smashed efforts by opposition leader Arthur Calwell and his Labor Party followers to take over control of the government which has been headed by the 68-year-old prime minister for the last 14 years.

At 11:30 p.m., with nearly 70 per cent of an estimated six million votes counted, Menzies' government coalition forces seemed certain to increase their present two-seat majority in the House of Representatives to between 15 and 20.

Viet Girl Burns Self To Death

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—A 17-year-old Vietnamese girl burned herself to death today before a stunned crowd of onlookers in one of Saigon's main squares.

Police identified the girl as Tran Bach Ngax, whose name in English means the White Swan.

It was not immediately clear why she had taken her life. One report indicated it was because of a broken love affair. Another said it was to protest the release of a number of imprisoned Buddhist priests and nuns.

Letter From JFK

SPOKANE, Wash (AP) — Jennie D. Bassett turned 105 Tuesday, and relatives say she got "lots and lots" of cards, cakes and flowers.

But one of Mrs. Bassett's most treasured remembrances is a birthday card from the White House signed by the late President John F. Kennedy. It was postmarked in Washington, D.C., Friday, Nov. 22, the day the president was assassinated in Dallas.

U.N. TV Center

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly's budgetary committee Friday approved an appropriation of 1.19 million dollars to build a television-radio and film center in the basement area of the General Assembly Building.

Unruh On Rafferty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh said yesterday politics and education should go hand-in-hand and pointed to Dr. Max Rafferty as an example.

Unruh, addressing a Commonwealth Club luncheon, said Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, "had to make a political issue out of education in order to be elected" because of opposition against his proposal to reorient California schools.

"But Rafferty is right to this extent," Unruh continued, "They (educational matters) should not be partisan political issues."

Unruh said that politics are necessary to the solution of problems of educational philosphy and financing in a democracy. What is unfortunate about politics in education, he added, is partisanship.

Burton Settlement

NEW YORK (AP) — Sybil Burton's attorney says she and her actor-husband, Richard Burton, have reached a financial settlement but that no divorce is in the works.

Aaron Frosch, the attorney, declined to discuss details of the settlement.

Churchill Is 89

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 89th birthday today surrounded by his family in his London home and warmed by greetings from all over the world.

For Fair Housing

SUNNYVALE (UPI) — Sixteen Sunnyvale lawyers, acting in "partial fulfillment of a pledge to President Kennedy," have asked the city's board of realtors to refuse to circulate a petition designed to repeal the Rumford Fair Housing Law.

Joseph F. Lewis, chairman of the Sunnyvale Bar Assn's. civil rights committee, said yesterday his group's stand grew from a meeting between the late president and 200 lawyers several months ago to discuss civil rights issues. He said in a letter to the board the request was in "partial fulfillment of a pledge to President Kennedy."

The California Real Estate Assn. is sponsoring the initiative constitutional amendment. The association said the amendment will give Californians "freedom of choice" in selling, renting and leasing their property.

Patients Captured

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three of the five mental patients who escaped from a state hospital yesterday were back in their maximum security cells today as New York City police pressed their search for the two others still at large.

The five, including two teenagers, brandished a pistol and a dagger to subdue two guards and forced one at gunpoint to drive them from Rockland State Hospital at Orangeburg 35 miles to a subway station in Upper Manhattan.

All of the escapees are from New York City. A city-wide police hunt trapped two of them within hours and a third was picked up lated. None resisted arrest.

Negro Policemen

MONTGOMERY, Ala (AP)—The Montgomery police department will accept applications immediately for a Negro police reserve.

Police Chief W. M. Stanley said yesterday that the unit would be composed of 36 Negroes "trained in police fundamentals in order that they might be prepared for active duty assignments in the event that circumstances should require."

There are no Negroes on the police force.

Teen Auto Death

PLEASANT VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — One hour after he picked up his junior operator's license, Peter C. Mosier, 16, of Wassaic, N.Y., was killed in a three-car collision while driving home yesterday.

Composer Dies

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (UPI) — Ernesto Lecuona, composer of such popular songs as "Siboney," "Malaguena," "The Breeze and I," and "In Spain They Say Si Si," died here last night. He was 68.

County Will Purchase Property For Tam Park

Marin County supervisors announced yesterday the county intends to purchase for $50,000 the 15-acre Roy M. Scott property in Frank's Valley to be added to Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Most of the money will be reimbursed by the State Division of Beaches and Parks, after a new appraisal is made of the property. An appraisal made in August, 1962, pegged the value of the land at $42,000.

Supervisors called a special meeting yesterday in an attempt to act before a deadline tomorrow. Under a lease-purchase agreement entered into by the county and Scott of San Francisco, the county has paid $1,200 in rental from money raised by conservation groups. If the purchase option is exercised before Dec. 1, the $1,200 would be deducted from the $50,000 purchase price.

Whether or not yesterday's "intent to purchase" action was sufficient to meet the Dec. 1 deadline was not completely clear.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael), one of several individuals and groups who plugged for state aquisition of the Scott Property, was present at the supervisors meeting yesterday.

At the suggestion of Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker, the board thanked Assemblyman Bagley and "all groups for their efforts in preserving valuable land for the park system." Among groups that raised the $1,200 rental to hold the property were the Tamalpais Conservation Club, the Sierra Club, and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

County Counsel E. Warren McGuire immediately dispatched a letter to Scott, notifying him that the county had voted to exercise its option to buy. McGuire estimated that it would take one to two months for the state to appraise the property and reimburse the funds to the county.

If the state appraisal falls below the $48,000 purchase price, the county will have to make up the difference.

Firm Is Moving In Mill Valley

The move is being made to permit Pacific Telephone and Telegraph to expand its present facilities at 128 Throckmorton, located in the same building. Expansion had been contemplated, said Charles F. Berlenbach Jr., manager, Southern Marin, Pacific Telephone. He added that the community has now grown to need the expanded quarters.

Services at Tyrrell's include Western Union and telephone answering, managed by Mrs. Virginia Coolidge, plus secretarial, mimeograph and travel service, managed by Lew and Clyda Tyrrell.

Three Doctors Will Be On TV

Three Marin County physicians will appear on "Doctors News Conference" at 9:15 p.m. Monday over KTVU-TV, Channel 2.

They are Dr. Gerald Hill, chairman of the Marin County Medical Society's smoking education program; Dr. Edward A. McCrum, president of Marin County Heart Association; and Dr. Eugene P. Shatkin, clinical instructor in pediatrics at the University of California School of Medicine.

Speaking on "What Are Doctors Doing About Cigarettes?", the trio will answer questions from science writers John F. Allen and George Dusheck, and from Lawrence A. Williams, program producer.

Penders To Stay At Parks Post

Joseph F. Penders, Mill Valley park superintendent, will continue in his job at least until January, City Mgr. A. E. Almcrants said today.

Penders, demoted by Almcrants Sept. 17 to keeper of the greens, was to remain in his superintendent's capacity until today or until a new man was found. The reason given by the city manager was that "The change would materially add to the effectiveness of the department."

The city council has appointed a selection committee and set up basic qualifications for the job. An examination will be held Jan. 11, Almcrants reported.

Marine Supply, Furniture Store Changes Hands

Paint 'N' Putter, a paint, unfinished furniture and marine supply store at 1619 Bridgeway, Sausalito, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Rogers of Sausalito from Donald H. Carlberg of Tiburon. Rogers did not disclose the price.

Rogers, who lives at 109 Central Avenue, said he will continue carrying the same products and plans to add other lines later. He will carry Glidden paints.

Rogers is an engineer who most recently was in consulting work. He is president of the Marin Junior College District board of trustees and a member of the county committee on school district organization. He and his wife have two sons, students at Tamalpais High School, and a married daughter who lives in Sausalito. The Rogers have resided in Sausalito 22 years.

The Carlbergs live at 537 Virginia Drive.

Chainsaw Stolen

A $265 chainsaw was reported stolen Thursday from a barn at the Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, 2500 Fifth Avenue, near San Rafael. Sheriff's officers said the brace may have been removed from a door to gain entry.

Mosquito Unit Bid Due Hearing

The Marin Mosquito Abatement District's proposed annexation of 1,563 acres near Stafford Lake will come before the Local Agency Formation Commission on the morning of Dec. 12.

Bert Broemmel, chairman of the Local Agency Formation Commission, announced that the meeting will be held in the supervisors chambers at the Civic Center at 8 a.m.

The acreage proposed for annexation is south of Novato Boulevard, adjacent to and east of Stafford Lake including the Pleasant Hill subdivision and adjoining agricultural land.

Marin's Local Agency Formation Commission, formed by a new state law, will rule on all future annexations and incorporations in Marin County.

Marin Concert Goers Given Duo Piano Treat

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Marin concert goers were treated to one of the all too rare local appearances of duo pianists Milton and Peggy Salkind in a brilliant concert last night at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

In their music for four hands at one piano, the Salkinds, who are of complementary musical temperaments, have developed a style that is remarkable for clarity of touch and unanimity of expressive insight and dramatic power. They compare favorably with the top pianistic duos of the day.

Their concerts are notable not only for polished performance but careful programming that avoids the too familiar and trite and includes arresting works in the modern style.

Last night was no exception. Emphasis was on the contemporary idiom with half of the program consisting of a Hindemith sonata and a dance suite the Salkinds had commissioned from the late youthful composer Robert Kurka. And their first encore was a "Galop" by Stravinsky.

Though as superbly trained and disciplined musicians they are accomplished performers of the music of any period, the Salkinds seem to have a special affinity for and skill in interpretation of the contemporary repertoire. They are doing much to help audiences learn to appreciate it.

The Hindemith and Kurka words, therefore, had much appeal as venturesome and new departures from comfortable tradition.

By contrast the more familiar harmonies were all the more palatable in the opening Mozart "Sonata in F Major" K. 497 and closing "Divertissement a l'Hongroise" by Schubert.

The concert, which was presented as a benefit by friends of the Student Non-violent coordinating Committee, was a success financially as well as artistically, for an enthusiastic audience of more than 200 nearly filled the Outdoor Art Club.

Commute Books Taken By Thief

Some thief is freeloading into San Francisco.

Charles Bold of 139 Stadium Way, Almonte, reported to the sheriff's office yesterday that his November and December commute books were taken from the visor of his car while it was parked in his carport.

Bold also noted that three other commute books have been taken from his car.

Student, 17, Cited In Almonte Crash

A car driven by a 17-year-old high school student from Arcata, Humboldt County, skidded off Morningside Avenue, south of Yale Avenue, Almonte, at 9 p.m. yesterday knocking over three mail boxes, six trees and a wooden fence, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The driver, Lloyd Douglas Jowers, was cited for failure to drive on the right side of the road. The car came to a stop in the yard of Karl Bower, 121 Morningside Avenue, after damaging Bower's fence and shrubs.

Former Marinite Given Air Medal

First Lt. Don E. Wells, a San Rafael High School graduate, has been awarded the Air Medal for his service with a United States Air Force advisory unit in South Viet Nam.

Wells, an Air Force pilot, was presented the medal, one of the nation's highest peacetime honors, at ceremonies at Pope Air Force Base, N. C.

Marinite Is Elected Concrete Group Head

Clayton K. Rice of 337 Point San Pedro Road, San Rafael, has been elected president of the Northern California Concrete Masonary Assn.

Bolinas Town Forum Meeting

Schools, recreation and harbor development will be discussed at a Bolinas Town Forum at 8 p.m. Friday at the Bolinas Community Center.

Peter M. Auer, superintendent of the Bolinas-Stinson Beach School District; Kelvin Nelson, county parks and recreation director, and representatives of the Bolinas Harbor Commission will speak and answer questions.

Marin County Supervisor Peter H. Behr will be moderator.

Spaniel Lost In Terra Linda

Speck, 4-year-old, brown and white springer spaniel is missing from his home at 1103 Via Horqueta, Terra Linda.

The male dog, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wilkinson, disappeared yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Wilkinson fears that the dog has either been picked up, hit by a car or is trapped by its long ears in a thicket of brush.

It was last seen at Bernard Hoffman School about 4 p.m.

Davidson Students Twist The Most

Davidson Junior High School students swept the contests at the Junior High Youth Club social meeting Wednesday, sponsored by the San Rafael Recreation Department.

Brenda Lawson and Mike Briones won the twist contest and Suzanne Nattross and Larry Nelson won a prize for finishing their dance on an "X" that was marked on the dance floor.

Thousands Visit Kennedy's Grave

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite icy winds, thousands more visitors crowded into Arlington National Cemetery today to visit the flower decked grave of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Many tourists were among those who arrived before the cemetery gates opened at 8 a.m. Long lines, six-abreast, extended from the grave site down a slope to the cemetery gates.

Novato Unit Will Fight Apartments

The West Novato Assn. will continue its fight against development of apartments and cluster housing on the 250-acre Pimental Ranch in West Novato at the meeting of the Marin County Planning Commission which starts at 9 a.m. Monday at the Civic Center.

The association is fighting to preserve the rural character of the area, said Jack O. Burgi, association president. "We felt ignored at the last planning commission meeting," he said.

A petition signed by about 300 residents has been presented in protest, Burgi said. "We feel that the people living in the surrounding area should be considered."

Presidio Development Co. of Novato plans apartments, cluster houses and commercial development of the area between Mill and Vineyard roads.

Final plans for action against the development were made at an association meeting last night, Burgi said. Attorney Edwin Grundstrom will represent the association at the planning commission meeting.

Directors Of Hub Chamber Elected

Three directors were re-elected and five new directors elected to the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board in mail balloting that ended yesterday.

Re-elected were Frank Theron, A. Von Rotz and Edward Nordmann. Elected were Robert Nolan, Edward Clark, George Butts, Richard Silvey and William Hauze.

They will serve two-year terms starting Jan. 1, joining seven carry-over directors to form a 15-member board. The chamber board will meet at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the Ranch House restaurant in San Anselmo.

Marin Teen GOP Sends Widow $30

The Teen-age Republicans of Marin have sent $30 to the widow of Dallas police officer J. D. Tippit, killed while trying to arrest the president's suspected assassin.

The teen-age group voted to take the money from its treasury at a meeting in the county courthouse Wednesday. Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) spoke to the group about the "rise to power" of Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh (D-Los Angeles).

Cook Pleads Innocent To Burglary Charge

Johnny Walker, pleaded innocent yesterday to the $570 burglary of Pete's Pier, 2007 Bridgeway, Sausalito, on Nov. 13. He was arrested on the charge by Sausalito police Tuesday.

Judge Harold J. Haley in Marin Municipal Court set a preliminary hearing on the charge for Thursday. Walker, 31, of 2009 Bridgeway, is a cook in another Sausalito restaurant.

Council To Close

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Ecumenical Council closes its second session next week. Pope Paul VI will officially end the session in ceremonies in St. Peter's Basilica on Wednesday.

ELECTED PRESIDENT — Eugene E. Crawford, San Rafael architect, has been elected president of the Northern California chapter of the American Institute of Architects for 1964. He succeeds Alton S. Lee and has been a vice president, treasurer and director of the chapter. Crawford and his family live in Mill Valley.

Story To Be In Magazine

Mrs. Edna Geries of 239 Union Street, San Rafael, has a story in the December issue of Jack and Jill, a magazine for young readers.

Mrs. Geries' story, "The Borrowed Space Suit," tells about a boy who loans his costume to his Mexican neighbor in order that the neighbor can join the Christmas parade. Both boys get a surprise when the awards are announced.

Mrs. Geries, who works as a clerk in a San Rafael store, is the mother of four children. When the children were growing up, she spent many hours reading to them.

This is her second success at juvenile fiction. She has also sold a story that will appear in a future issue of Wee Wisdom magazine.

Report On Bolinas Harbor Is Delayed

A report by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, dealing with possible improvement of Bolinas Harbor and expected last night during the harbor commission's regular meeting, has been delayed pending further studies, Gene W. McDaniel, commission president, said today.

He said fuller research should now be concluded by end of this year. McDaniel said it is a policy of the corps to keep results of its findings confidential until the completed report is released. At that time, he said, a public hearing is held.

Children Safe After Late Trek

Two San Anselmo children were safely home today following a midnight trek in their pajamas which aroused over a dozen neighbors and police to search for them.

Missing were Kevin Miller, 5, and his sister, Pamela, 7.

The mother, Mrs. Sheila Miller of 34 Florence Avenue, said she had spent the evening in San Francisco with a friend, Mrs. Jack Leonoff of 64 Belle Avenue, Fairfax. She said she returned home about 1 a.m., earlier than Mrs. Leonoff, and left her children alone to drive her baby-sitter home.

During the eight minutes she was gone, she said, her children, barefooted and in pajamas, awoke, became frightened, and wandered into the street.

They walked the two blocks to the Leonoff residence, where Jack Leonoff, believing Mrs. Miller still out with his wife, kept the children until his wife returned about 4 a.m., police said.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Miller notified officers of her missing children and a house-to-house, yard-to-yard check was made by police and neighbors of the immediate vicinity. The search ended when the Leonoff's informed Mrs. Miller of the children's whereabouts.

30 Pupils Due From Mexico

A contingent of pupils from Mexico City are scheduled to arrive in Novato tonight in what is perhaps the first "student exchange" program at the elementary school level.

The visiting group of about 30 pupils and nine teachers will live with Novato families next week and attend classes at West Novato School.

The visit is the outgrowth of correspondence and exchange of pictures and tape recordings between pupils of West Novato School and the Centro Urbano Presidente Alemain school pupils in Mexico City for two years.

Silva, Gnoss Due Honor From Lions

Novato Mayor M. E. Babe Silva and County Supervisor William Gnoss will be installed as honorary members of the Novato Lions Club during the Dec. 14 Christmas party at Cloud 5.

The installation is for "outstanding contributions to Lionism in Novato." A buffet and entertainment will follow.

Movie Is Slated

A film on "Discipline," fifth in the John Tracy Clinic Film Series, will be presented by Marin Parents of Handicapped Children at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Marindale School, San Rafael.

Reed School Study Slated

Reed Union School District trustees last night unanimously voted to appoint a steering committee to study means of surveying community desires and of ascertaining reasons why the October tax election failed.

After a lengthy discussion trustees decided to appoint a seven-to-nine member committee including six citizens, Edward C. Pino, district superintendent, representing the staff, and Leo Souza and Marilyn Steinau, representing the school board. One of the citizens presumably will be in the field of research.

Although Souza recommended a new election immediately asking for a 50-cent tax increase instead of the $1 requested in October, he voted with the board in favor of canvassing the community.

Park Employees Retire Tomorrow

Two Mill Valley park department employees will retire tomorrow, the first men to be retired under the new compulsory 65-year limit passed by the city council.

Hansen began with the department Sept. 1, 1950. Silva has worked for the city since Sept. 15, 1948, but had worked for the city 11-years previously.

Formerly compulsory retirement was 70. No new men have yet been hired as replacements.

Wheels Are Stolen From Parked Auto

Barbara J. Wilson of Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Strawberry Point, had trouble trying to get her car out of the seminary parking lot yesterday.

She reported to the Marin County sheriff's office that someone had removed the front wheels from her car and propped the front up on two four-by-four posts. The theft occurred between 8:30 p.m. Thursday and 1:30 p.m. yesterday.

Mill Valley Council

The Mill Valley City Council will hear a review of the controversial 1962-63 audit report from City Auditor Frederic D. Kerr at its meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the city hall. Also on the agenda are progress reports on the Ethel Avenue slide and the proposed park site for the library.

Always Beside Her Husband—

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Earlier this year, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson was asked about her plans for the future, and she replied:

"It's hard enough to get today's work done; I'll let tomorrow take care of itself. Whatever Lyndon does, I'll be happy doing it right along with him."

THE WORDS PAINT a portrait of the small, brunette, 50-year-old woman who is the new First Lady of the United States.

"Beguiling and efficient," is the way Adlai Stevenson described her.

To those who don't know her, perhaps the first thing that will be noticed is her Texas drawl. It's unmistakable but has a touch of softness akin to the South. Her mother came from Alabama.

But many across the nation already know her, for Mrs. Johnson rode the campaign trail for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960. Sometimes she went alone, sometimes with groups of Kennedy ladies, going to teas and receptions, appearing on radio and television and holding press conferences.

NEW FIRST LADY

For a while she didn't make speeches, confining herself to "thank-you-all," but she took some speech courses and gained confidence.

HER NAME, Lady Bird, intrigues many. Born in Karmack, Tex., Dec. 22, 1912, she was named Claudia Alta Taylor. But a nursemaid said she looked just like a lady bird, and that name stuck. Her close friends call her Bird.

BACK OF THESE — a girl who took scholastic honors in high school and earned two degrees from the University of Texas, a bachelor of arts and a bachelor of journalism in 1934 . . . a canny business woman . . . a woman who has spent most of her married life in the whirl of politics.

On Nov. 17, 1934, she and Lyndon B. Johnson were married, and three years later she started knowing the life of the wife of a public official when he came to Congress.

EARLIER THIS year an Arab diplomat protested her honorary sponsorship of a ball honoring Israel's independence. Mrs. Johnson answered that firmly:

" . . . I have, for whatever small value it may be, tried to be accessible and available to as many as possible, without distinction as to religion, race or region, and certainly including all states of the Near East. I shall continue to do so."

THE JOHNSONS have made it a policy to try to weave their two daughters into their public life. Lynda Bird, 19, a sophomore at the University of Texas, looks and acts like her father. She likes people. She's the outgoing type. Lucy Baines, 16, is more reserved.

ALL MEMBERS of the family like the easy, casual, open-door way of life at the Johnsons' ranch near Johnson City, Tex. Mrs. Johnson is not what you call a horsewoman. She is the one who goes ahead to the ranch to prepare for guests almost always there when the Johnsons are on the ranch. She sees that everything runs smoothly.

SHE WILL NOT contemplate moving to the White House, she said, until all the chores Mrs. Kennedy wishes to be done are done.

"I wish to heaven I could serve Mrs. Kennedy's happiness," Mrs. Johnson said. "I can at least serve her convenience."

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Symphony Event Inspires Parties

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Tomorrow night's first concert of the Symphony Guild of Marin's season in the auditorium of Marin Catholic High School is inspiring many parties. Following the 8 o'clock concert Mr. and Mrs. John Lesoine of Ross are giving a reception honoring Sandor Salgo, conductor of the Marin Symphony Orchestra, and Mrs. Salgo and soprano Jane Marsh, the concert's guest artist, and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Earle Marsh of Mill Valley. Miss Marsh is the winner of the Corona Anderson Memorial Scholarship awarded by the Symphony Guild. Mrs. Anderson's daughter, Mrs. Boris Lakusta of San Rafael, and Mr. Lakusta and Mrs. Norman M. Livermore will join many past presidents of the Symphony Guild and other guests to greet Miss Marsh and the Salgos. The Walter M. Bairds, (she is president of the Symphony Guild), John M. Wolfes, Charles E. Davies, J. Benton Tulleys, James Heynemanns, and Senator and Mrs. John F. McCarthy will also be guests of the Lesoines.

Continuing her tradition of combining enjoyment of music with her friends Mrs. Delmar Smith Clinton of Mill Valley is entertaining Doctor and Mrs. Rodney B. Hartman and Mrs. Hartman's mother, Mrs. Thomas L. Harris, Messrs. and Mesdames L. C. Beringer, Paul Kleinsmith, Mrs. Andrew Cassells, who has returned from a month in Pakistan; Mrs. Alvert Von der Werth, Mrs. F. J. Connelly, Mrs. DeWitt Clark, and Mrs. Clinton's grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart McDill. With her other guests, Messrs. and Mesdames Harrison McNear Leppo, Robert Schultz, Arnold Oehler, Mrs. Clinton will go on to the Lesoine reception. The Oehlers have sold their Mill Valley home and will move to Carmel after the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Baird of San Rafael will have as their dinner guests, Doctors and Mesdames Russell Bernhard, William Eastman, Orville Grimes, Messrs. and Mesdames Robert Blakeslee, Edward Grady, Kenneth Shanley, John Busterud, G. Edward French and Vail Cliff.

AT HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. C. F. Necrason and their two daughters, Sandra and Ginger, had the traditional dinner Thursday with the troops in the airmen's dining hall on the base.

MANY NOVATANS entertained Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson entertained guests from several areas of the country. Sharing the holiday with the Johnsons were Messrs. and Mesdames Charles E. Ellis of Portland, Ore., Walter Martin Jr. and family of San Mateo, Harry Clausing and Ernest Jemison of Novato and Messrs. Walter Burns Jr. of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Glen G. Clark of San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. Charles P. Davies of Indian Valley Ranch are entertaining two guests from London. Timothy Huntington and Andrew Winn, who are on their way home from Sydney, Australia, have been with the Davies the past week and left to return to London last night.

The L. E. Countrymans had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Sherlock McKewen of San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. James Bunker enjoyed having their family with them, Sarah, their daughter who is attending University of California Medical School in San Francisco, their daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Peter Brill of Berkeley and Mrs. Bunker's mother, Mrs. E. C. Jackson of Berkeley, were all together for the holiday in Novato.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Wisgerhof and daughters, Robin and Keri, spent their first Thanksgiving in Novato. Mr. and Mrs. Garland Erix of Southern Cafilornia are enjoying the weekend with them and they plan to take sightseeing trips to San Francisco on the weekend.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID H. TEATHER of Lyford's Cove gave an open house at their home Sunday.

Novato Squares Plan Saturday Dance Party

Don Atkins of Concord will be featured caller at tonight's square dance sponsored by the Novato Squares. Atkins is a recording artist from Concord and is also associated with the "Western Airs" of Concord and San Jose.

The dance will be held at Lynwood School at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, said Leroy Reynolds, president of the club. Chairmen for the dance are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith of Novato.

Put Mallet Away

Outdoor Art Dinner Dance Will Have Snowball Theme

"Snow Ball" is the theme selected for the dinner-dance members and guests of Mill Valley's Outdoor Art Club will attend on Dec. 7.

Planned by ways and means chairman Mrs. Cecil Brown and Mrs. Frank Hamilton, coordinator, the festive occasion will start at 7:30 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres served around the wassail bowl before dinner.

Afterward there will be dancing from 9 p.m. to music provided by a dance orchestra.

A snowfall backdrop silhouetted with blue and silver snowmen will be among highlights of decor being planned by decorations co-chairmen Mesdames William Praun and Joseph Witherow with the assistance of Mesdames J. C. Craik and Leonard Bjorklund Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keane, dinner chairmen, will be assisted by Mesdames A. B. Goddard, James R. Betts, Walter L. Long, John A. Lennon and Eugene Quinn.

Mrs. Gordon Reynolds, beverage chairman, will be assisted by Messrs. Gordon Reynolds, Cecil Brown and Edward Dill. Mrs. Howard B. Bleyle will be assisted with hors d'oeuvres by Mrs. Albert Von De Werth.

Table decorations will be done by Mrs. John C. Burnham, assisted by Mesdames Leroy B. Everett Jr., Paul Hurd, J. M. Hahn, and Mrs. William Pemberton will be assisted with settings by Mesdames Fred W. Bullock, Edward Dill, Ernest A. Brymer, Robert R. Laughead, Earle M. Marsh and Robert L. Schultz.

Greeting guests will be club president Mrs. Russell Mills and club treasurer Mrs. Earl F. Reinke with their husbands.

Survey Shows Hubby Does Approve Of Wife's Hairdo

CHICAGO (UPI)—A survey of 200 married men of all age groups and occupations showed that 86 per cent approved of their wife's hairdo. But 68 per cent had a strong dislike for far-out headgear at bedtime.

More than 73 per cent of the husbands interviewed in the survey told researchers their wives never put their hair up at night.

Husbands of all ages felt that their wives selected a new hair-do to please them, and that their own comments, suggestions and encouragement were helpful.

MOST OF THE MEN liked soft, simple natural-looking coiffures. Only 17 per cent said they honestly liked short hairdos on women. Sixty-three per cent cast their vote for a well-kept, medium-length coif.

Men in the fairly conservative occupations—banking, law, teaching, insurance—tended to favor more elaborate hair styles and livelier colors, such as light blondes and redheads. Most of the men interviewed approved of hair coloring such as rinses and tints, and said their wives discussed a hair color change with them before having it done.

Thirty-five per cent of the husbands revealed that they did not remember how their wives wore their hair when they first were married.

ON HAIR COLOR most husbands preferred brunettes, followed by redheads. Blondes trailed in third place. Then came black hair. Gray hair ranked last.

The poll showed that husbands consider themselves experts on their wives' hair styles. Only 3 per cent showed any hesitancy at all about stating their likes and dislikes.

Marinites Will Model For League

Three Marinites are among the Junior League of San Francisco members who will model in the league's annual fashion show, which will be given Jan. 29 at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

Among the 19 models will be Mesdames George A. Hynes of Greenbrae, John H. Wingate Jr. of San Anselmo and Edgar B. Washburn of San Rafael.

'CHRISTMAS AROUND THE WORLD' holds excitement for little Michelle Sabella and Mark Kim, who here are intrigued with the Mexican pinata which will be filled with goodies for the children who will model for the fashion show Dec. 7. Mrs. Don Pitts holds the promising decoration.

Transportation Problems Topic For Club Section

Mrs. Alfred Azevedo will speak Thursday on "Transportation Problems in Marin" at the meeting of the Outdoor Art Club's civics and conservation section.

The public has been invited to join members for the meeting set for 10 a.m. at the clubhouse.

A member of the Marin Council for civic affairs and chairman of its committee on metropolitan problems, Mrs. Azevedo was president of the Tiburon Property Owners Assn. From 1956 to 1960 she served on the Marin County Planning Commission.

Bit Of Atmosphere

A bit of atmosphere can be added to the interior of automobiles by following a European custom. In Europe, car interiors have small vases into which flowers are inserted.

Pixie Parents Will Present 'Around The World' Fashions

Fashion imports shown against a background of Christmas decor will characterize the "Christmas Around the World" theme fashion show to be staged by Pixie Parents organization. The event, for which both mothers and children will model, will be given Dec. 7 at Rafael Raquet Club in San Rafael, opening at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Edward Biglieri is chairman for the day and Mrs. Norman Gilroy of Larkspur is reservations chairman.

Coffee and rolls will be served as guests enjoy the annual fund raising activity of the affiliate organization of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Mrs. Richard H. O'Brien is commentator. Other chairmen are Mesdames Denis Kim, decorations; Norman Sanguinetti, models; H. William Nilsen, posters; E. Gunner Schull, programs; Robert Rosenblatt, awards, and Bart Richardson, publicity.

Dominican Group Plans Luncheon

Mrs. John Taddeucci, social chairman of the Dominican College Alumnae, has announced a bridge luncheon to be held on the campus in San Rafael on Dec. 7.

Jean Hamel Bride In Rite At Mill Valley Community Church

Mrs. Jean Giffen Hamel of Mill Valley and William W. Gnann of Los Angeles were married Saturday afternoon in the chapel of the Mill Valley Community Church.

The bride was gowned in an oyster white alaskine sheath and matching tulle hat, and her matron of honor, Mrs. Ben Young of Belvedere, wore a rose brocade sheath.

William C. Stauble of Hartford, Conn., served the bridegroom as best man, and James G. Miller of Ross escorted guests to their seats.

Present for the wedding was the bride's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Otto W. Schoenfelder of Washington, D.C.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. After a honeymoon in Mexico the newly married couple will live in Los Angeles, where the bridegroom is West Coast sales representative for Holo-Krone of Hartford, Conn.

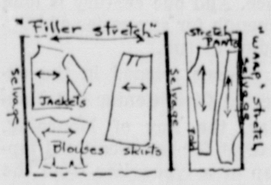
SEW SIMPLE

Only The Lining Needs Marks On An Underlined Garment

"When I make a dress that is fully lined, I seem to waste a lot of time by making darts, etc., on both the outer fabric and the lining. Since all the darts are sewed from the inside, I find it necessary to mark the lining also. A tip on how to mark these kind of lined garments would be appreciated."
Mrs. B.S.D.



Dear Mrs. B.S.D.:

When a garment is completely underlined (basting two pieces of fabric together and treating as one), you need only mark the lining. As you say, you will be working from the lining side for darts, etc., so you are only going to double work by marking both.

"Whoever said 'A little knowledge is a dangerous thing' knew what they were talking about. The more I seem to know about sewing, the more dissatisfied I am with my results when they aren't perfect. Now the thing that bugs me more than anything, is how to make the outer edges of coats and jackets nice and flat. My edge seams always look unpressed." Mrs. R.R.W.

Dear Mrs. R.R.W.:

It is true with sewing, as with anything else, the more we know, the more we want to know about it, and of course, that is a good sign. The trouble you are having with the outer edges, or faced edges of your garments, is probably a lack of proper pressing. The faced edges should be pressed open on the edge board part of your Tailor Trix Pressing Board. This will insure flat, professional looking faced edges of your garment. For more information about this board, write to Sew Simple, in care of this paper. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Don't discard your husband's dress shirts simply because he has gained a little weight, or if the neck of the shirt has shrunk (as he will say). Enlarge it by ½ inch by attaching a small loop of elastic thread to the shirt. This will be pulled through the buttonhole and slipped around the button. Your husband won't be choking anymore and no one will be the wiser because his tie will cover it.

Mrs. J. Kosmack, Euclid, Ohio, is this week's winner of a tailor trix Pressing Board for this suggestion.

"I would like information and sewing instructions for the new stretch fabrics which are now available. I have inquired at all the stores near where I live and can't find the information I need." Mrs. C.H.F.

Dear Mrs. C.H.F.:

There have been many requests for more information about stretch fabrics. I shall try to give you a few pointers direct from the manufacturer.

There are three types of stretch cloth: warp stretch, filler stretch, and two-way stretch.

Warp stretch is the most popular today, and this expands in the same direction as the selvage.

Two-way stretch expands in both directions.

Stretch fabrics have become so popular because of their comfort. You can have a slim fitting garment with extra ease which is very important for everyday wear as well as active sports. When used for long pants, it is advisable to add a strap at the end of the legs to be slipped under the foot to prevent riding up.

Your garments made of stretch fabric will usually retain their shape perfectly, however, occasionally you may need to restore their shape by pressing with a steam iron.

Cutting: Do not pull or stretch the fabric, just smooth and proceed. Usually you will not need any lining, except in bathing suits or like garments. Stretch fabrics are easy to sew on, use a medium needle, no special thread, and a medium length stitch. If you would line a garment, you would have to use a tricot lining to give the outer fabric the same stretch.

You can use scraps of stretch fabrics for book covers, golf club covers, crib toys, slippers, hats, and many small items.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Now Is The Time To Think Of Blood Bank Credits

Before that Thanksgiving glow wears away, and while your sense of human tragedy is still sharpened by recollections of recent tragic events, give consideration to helping the Marin County Blood Reserve Fund.

It's in a bad fix. Paradoxically, this situation seemingly stems from an effort to make things easy for those who can donate blood in Marin County.

For the year 1963 the total number of donors has been only 127 although for the past two and one-half years San Rafael has had a Marin Blood Center opened in May of 1961 at 506 Fourth Street.

In contrast, during the year 1960 there were 267 donors although these had to watch for the monthly visit of a mobile unit. During 1961 when this was the case nearly half of the year there were 277 donors. The following year, 1962, the lowest level of all was set with a mere 104.

Reason for this seemingly odd situation is believed to be that though the monthly mobile unit was less handy, it got more publicity. As the day of its visit drew near, no doubt many possible donors gave thought and resolved to take advantage of opportunity.

Now the San Rafael center maintains donor hours every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is also open Tuesday and Thursday to provide general information on the blood bank which has many interesting facts behind it including the system of "credit." When one donates his blood must be used within three weeks but it constitutes a "credit" good for up to a year —and in case of need, one can draw up to 10 units under this credit system on an understanding that there will be replacements within a year. Thus one's friends often can spare one needless financial outlay for blood in time of emergency.

During the two and one-half years of the center its reserve has helped many individuals as well as giving five credits a month to Fort Miley Veterans Hospital.

Five a month are also given to help hemophiliacs, open heart surgery cases and others needing constant transfusion.

The present situation surely does not reflect the potential blood donations of our growing county, nor our general desire to do the right thing. Yet the fact remains that when the mobile unit came, an average of 150 blood units was maintained constantly in fund whereas now there is a bare average of 15 a month.

From a purely selfish point of view quite apart from the general interest, it pays to bear in mind that individuals belonging to no organization or other fund groups to bank blood credits should act to establish credits at once for themselves and families. What about Monday?

Bouquets And Brickbats

BRICKBATS to critics of school closings last Friday afternoon when teachers and probably most of the children were in a state of acute shock.

A BOUQUET to the Marin Medical Society for renewed effort to persuade digit-minded phone people into enough common humanity to place the society's emergency number in its directory's emergency list.

A BOUQUET to Sausalito library trustees for adopting an inexpensive plan to provide more new books, rotated as popularity wanes.

A BOUQUET to C. Paul Bettini, San Rafael education board chairman, who refused an extra bus stop even though it meant high school students must practice the neglected art of walking for two blocks.

NEW PROBLEMS FOR JAPAN

Death Of Kennedy Postponed Vital Nippon-U.S. Talks

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI News Analyst

THIS WAS a week of disappointment as well as sadness for Japan.

Originally it had been scheduled that a distinguished United States delegation headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon would meet this week with their Japanese counterparts for a three-day discussion of mutual interests and problems.

Instead, on the day the meetings were to start Premier Hyato Ikeda and Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira were in Washington attending the funeral of President Kennedy.

And the discussions which the Japanese had hoped would be so fruitful were put off indefinitely.

IT WAS JUST one more example of the paralysis that had fallen over many another nation with close ties to the United States as it settled back into a period of enforced waiting upon the policies and decisions of the new president, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Until the death of President Kennedy, the conservative Liberal-Democratic government of Ikeda had been off to an auspicious new start.

General elections earlier in the month had returned his party to power with a comfortable majority of 283 in the 467-seat House of Representatives.

His Socialist opponents had gained seven seats for a total of 144. But that total was far short of the 180 the Socialists had asked in order to be sure of blocking any changes in Japan's no-war constitution.

THE SOCIALISTS had campaigned on two old standby issues, expanded trade with Red China and an end to Japan's alliance with the United States, and on a new one, Japan's mounting inflation.

Ikeda's answer had been to point to the millions of new television antennas sprouting from Japanese rooftops, thousands of new refrigerators in Japanese homes and an average annual gain of 10 per cent in the gross national product.

Except for the candidates, the Japanese yawned their way through the campaign and in the end agreed with Ikeda.

PRESIDENT Kennedy's death brought new worries.

The Japanese stock market plunged downward, reflecting investors' fears that the new Johnson administration would slow the drive toward freer international trade.

There also was wonder whether the Johnson administration would maintain the same close ties with Japan as had been followed by Kennedy, and finally there was another reflected throughout the world. The newspaper Asahi expressed it editorially by saying:

"In view of the magnitude of the personal leadership of Mr. Kennedy in foreign affairs and the depth of mutual understanding that existed between Mr. Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev, we are bound to feel some anxiety."

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

HELP THE YOUNG FIND JOBS

Teen-age unemployment "could develop into one of the most explosive social problems in the nation's history," said a spokesman for the U.S. Labor Department.

This statement was borne out by the fact that there were one million more 16-year-olds in 1963 than in the previous year. This reflects the increased birthrate, starting in 1947, now begnining to make itself felt on the job market.

The official also called for broad action to "improve our educational system, eliminate racial discrimination, stem the school drop-out rate and extend training opportunities to jobless youth."

While the average citizen may feel inadequate to cope with the towering problems to be surmounted in the years ahead, one constructive action is better than a bucketful of complaints.

"Let him labor, working with his hands at what is good." (Ephesions 4:28)

Make me realize, O Lord, that just as I depended on my elders for guidance, the young look to me for the same.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Kim Chapin Didn't Lack For Blood

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In reference to an article in the Independent-Journal Nov. 19 entitled "Open Heart Surgery Postponed," we wish to clarify that the postponement of six-year-old Kim Chapin's operation was not due to a blood supply problem as reported.

The surgery, originally scheduled for Oct. 17 at Children's Hospital in San Francisco, was postponed because the patient had a minor illness. Since this operation is performed at Children's Hospital only on Thursdays, and several other open heart surgeries had been scheduled in advance for the following weeks, Kim's operation was re-scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 5.

This date has been set for some time and barring further ear involvements, Kim will have the operation and be home in time for Christmas.

Blood used for open heart surgery is drawn within 48 hours of the operation in specially prepared plastic containers. Since the blood must also be type specific, the blood bank assumes the responsibility of recruiting sufficient blood donors to meet the needs of surgery and post operative care if necessary.

Patients, however, are responsible for replacing the blood used. Thanks to the thoughtfulness and interest of relatives and friends who donated blood early in October, ample blood credits are available to take care of Kim's replacement needs.

During the past seven years, since open heart surgery has been used extensively, our blood bank has provided 28,917 units of blood for 2,206 open heart surgery cases.

Is Driver Training Educational Frill?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

After reading your editorial with respect to driver training in schools, which you quote as a "gold-plated frill," I am constrained to believe that this editorial was written hastily, without knowledge of certain facts. I am no proponent of "frills" in education, but when a so-called "frill" can result in the saving of many lives and injuries, to say nothing of property damage and lost time, it has merit and should be applauded, not degraded.

Do you know that the State Highway Patrol is strongly in favor of driver training and that the American Automobile Assn. encourages it and backs it in every way possible? Do you know that the record of young drivers who have taken approved driver training shows a much lesser incidence of accidents, injuries and deaths than that of those who have not had such training? Do you know that many insurance companies, including the AAA affiliates, grant a reduction in automobile insurance premiums to young drivers who have taken such training, in recognition of their safer driving habits?

Is your driving good enough that you could teach your son safe driving and improve your own at the same time, as you infer in your editorial? Be honest, now!

I consider myself a fairly good driver, having had but two accidents in 45 years of driving, both the fault of the other driver, but I was glad to have my sons have the opportunity of taking driver training in high school, to be trained properly and impartially. Had you taken the "Defensive Driving" program now required by the State of California for all who have occasion to drive state cars, you would find that you, and a majority of us old timers now driving, have so much to learn about driving that it isn't funny.

C. FOSTER CLARK
San Rafael

(No foe of driver education as should be discerned through more careful reading of the editorial, it so happens nonetheless that its writer learned to drive from his father, taught his own son, and none of the three had a reportable accident from 1910. Dad taught himself! —Editor

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Dinner concluded, the head of a small family sat down at his desk to write a letter to an old friend. Suddenly he stopped short and began scratching his head. "What's wrong, dear?" asked his wife. "I had it on the tip of my tongue," he mused, "and now it's gone." "Stop stewing," she advised. "It will come back to you."

"Not this," he sighed. "It was a five-cent stamp."

William Saroyan once set out to interview Marc Connelly, of "Green Pastures" fame. He reported later, "Connelly is one of the most interesting talkers I ever encountered. At the conclusion of the interview, I was so hoarse I couldn't say another word for fifteen minutes!"

Weeklong Nightmare Is Ending As Marin Slowly Comes Back

And they look to 1980, wondering what dire event is going to occur then.

WE DON'T believe in jinxes, but since the matter has cropped up again as it did in the 1940s, we might as well face it and take a look.

They call it the 20-year cycle of misfortune in the lives of presidents.

Abraham Lincoln, elected in 1860, was assassinated in office. President Garfield, who took office 20 years later, was also shot.

Then came Presidents McKinley in 1900, Harding in 1920, and Franklin Roosevelt in 1940, all dying in office.

WE STILL don't buy it, but if there is such a thing as a jinx, this is as good a time to bury it as any.

Because a full 100 years has elapsed since Lincoln took office. And one century is long enough for any series of tragedies to run.

Silence reigned in the deserted Civic Center last Monday, the Day of Mourning, except for the occasional tap-tap of a typewriter from the public works office.

SECRETARY Sarah Landau, probably the only county employee who showed up for work that day, explained it this way: "I listened carefully to the radio and TV and they said all federal, state and city offices would be closed Monday.

"But no mention was made of 'county', so I came just to be sure."

And she stayed most of the day, working away with no one to bother her. Boy, that's devotion to duty.

DR. JOHN Bodo of the theological seminary in San Anselmo was at one time seriously considered as candidate for supervisor to oppose William D. Fusselman. But the latest word is that he had to stay out of the race because of personal reasons.

Can an egg crack a nut? Not likely, but the Eggheads of the Marin Civic Center Bowling League swear they're going to try it next Wednesday night. There should be fireworks when they collide with the league-leading Agri-Nuts, headed by Agricultural Commissioner Dick Straw.

Have you noticed the old gent who sits on his porch every morning and waves at commuters on the Miracle Mile?

You don't know him, and he doesn't know you, but if he's not there one morning, you wonder what might have happened.

Then you see him again next morning, and all's well with the world again.

LAST WEEK'S tragedy still seems unreal. Every time you turn on the radio or TV, you half hope to hear the president's reassuring voice or see his sunny smile again.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Plane Crashed Over Cuba Due To 'Hostile Action'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Intelligence authorities have informed the new president that a number of indications strongly point to that mysteriously crashed U-2 reconnaissance plane's having been downed through "hostile action."

Examination of the plane wreckage, recovered from 100-foot-deep water some 40 miles northeast of Key West and 180 miles north of Cuba, indicates the plane was severely damaged by an external explosion — in the opinion of intelligence experts, by an SA-2 missile.

IT IS ALSO deemed very likely that the impact of this powerful blast caused the automatic ejection seat to hurl the possibly wounded pilot out of the shattered plane. Neither he nor the seat have been found.

The U-2, on loan from the Strategic Air Command, was making one of the Central Intelligence Agency's weekly reconnaissance flights over Cuba. CIA has taken over such missions from the Air Force.

CIA bars the pilots from flying directly over Cuba. Instead, they must remain over international waters and take long-range photographs.

ON THIS ill-fated flight, the particular mission was to obtain photos of airbases on which a greatly increased number of Russian MIG fighters had been reported.

U-2 photos had revealed a sudden big increase in Soviet MIGs on and near certain Cuban airfields — around the same time some 3,000 Russian troops were being shipped home.

On the basis of these photos, U-2 experts raised their estimate of Red planes in Cuba from 150 to "more than 300."

These additional planes included MIG-17s, MIG - 19s, MIG - 21s and an unknown two - engine jet interceptor. They were observed chiefly in the vicinity of San Julian, San Antonio de Los Banos and Colon. Underground aircraft facilities have repeatedly been reported in these areas.

Captain Joe G. Hyde Jr., missing pilot of the lost U-2 was to focus on these suspected bases.

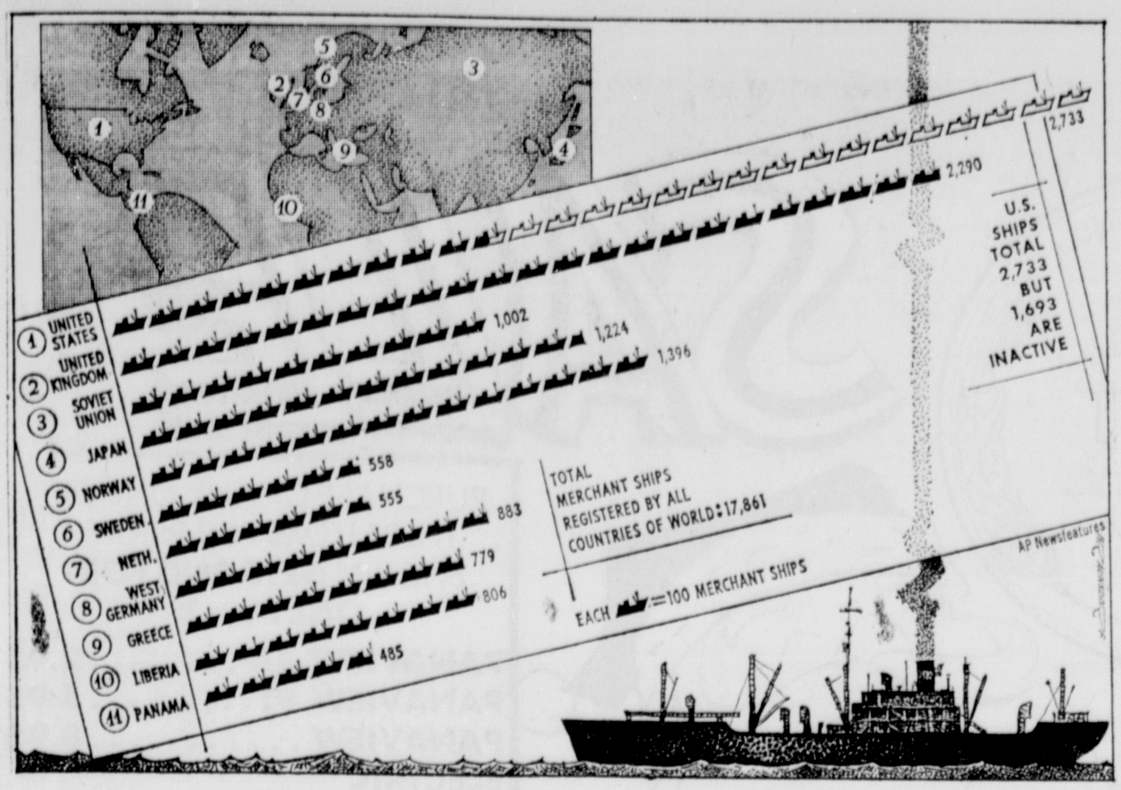
SEVERAL minutes before his plane vanished suddenly from radar scopes, the naval base at Guantanamo tracked the firing of two SA-2 missiles at an unidentified target. Simultaneously, the Guantanamo radar spotted a flight of Cuban interceptors streaking upward as if in pursuit.

At this time Hyde's plane is calculated as having been flying at great height along the northern coast of Cuba.

One aspect of this tragic mystery that has caused sharp reaction among Air Force and Navy authorities was the failure of U. S. interceptors to be anywhere near the crashed plane — only 40 miles from Key West, site of a large naval airbase.

The Country Parson

"It'd make me feel pretty good if I knew anything I'd ever published had helped somebody improve."



Merchant Marine Troubled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since 1936 the federal government has paid out almost 1.5 billion dollars in subsidies, and yet the merchant marine still faces hard times.

A recent report put the matter bluntly:

And then the report spells it out:

"The volume of cargo carried by U. S.-flag vessels in our foreign trade has declined from 65 million tons in 1946 to 35 million tons in 1960, while the total U. S. foreign trade carried by ocean vessels has grown from 100 million tons in 1946 to 285 million tons in 1960."

Why is this?

Well, in general foreign carriers can do the job for less, and furthermore they aren't as likely to be plagued by labor conflicts that may tie up ships.

Actually, many American - owned ships are being operated under registry in other countries because of less rigid rules and lower labor costs.

The report was made by a maritime evaluation committee headed by T. V. Houser, a former chairman for Sears, Roebuck and Co.

They found the industry facing 12 major problems, including high costs, outmoded equipment, poor management - labor relations and a situation that can't help but be explosive:

"The number of maritime workers (the report notes) exceeds by far the number of jobs available in the industry under present conditions, and the number of jobs is declining year by year."

One thing everyone seems agreed on: a strong merchant fleet is vital to this nation, especially in time of war. So the industry's problems are of concern to every one of us.

The committee came up with 37 recommendations, the chief of which dealt with squabbles between the operators and the workers.

"The frequency and bitterness of maritime - labor disputes underlying serious work interruptions are common knowledge," it said.

And later there's this observation:

"In brief, it is our view that whatever else is recommended will be of little avail unless measures are taken to correct the unhealthy state of labor-management relations which so fundamentally affects the entire industry."

One suggestion: Change the Taft-Hartley Act so that the President has more power to act in times of emergencies.

On a more cheerful note, the committee went on to the times when nuclear power may be used extensively, even though experiments with the atomic-powered Savannah have been a comedy of errors.

All this makes strange reading to anyone familiar with Herman Melville, who in his imagination a century ago created the famous Captain Ahab and his motley crew who set out in pursuit of the great white whale, Mobey Dick.

It made the greatest sea story of all time, and along the way left this indelible impression: No other sailors equal U. S. sailors, even though they may have been recruited from many different nations.

Even then, though, times were tough. Hardships were incredible, the ship and all hands but one were lost —and they didn't get the whale.

Backdoor Moratorium On Death Penalty

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN
U.P. International

The state of California, which almost every year executes more criminals than any other state in the union, has sent only one person to the gas chamber this year.

The death of James Abner Bentley on Jan. 23 was the 500th executive at San Quentin Prison. It happened in a state where an average of eight persons die in the gas chamber annually; and it happened in a prison where 44 men currently live on death row.

In early November, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, long an outspoken foe of the death penalty, commented on these unusual statistics.

"It's a situation," he said, "that really means capital punishment has been repeal by the courts. I think I've granted only two commutations this year, and all the rest have been stays by either the Supreme Court, the circuit court or the state courts.

Three days after Brown made his statement, the U. S. Supreme Court granted a stay of execution to Harold A. Spencer, six days before his date with death. Then within 10 days, the high court followed its action with two more stays, both for men scheduled to die in December.

During the past year, in a state where the arguments for and against capital punishment often rise to fever pitch, there have been so many stays of executions that prison officials have had bookkeeping problems in maintaining an accurate count.

The situation has created, in effect, a backdoor moratorium on the death penalty one that neither California laws nor the state constitution provides for.

For the past 30 years, state legislators who have opposed capital punishment have attempted to pass laws making the death penalty illegal. The matter has been debated either in committee or on the floors of the senate and the assembly 19 times.

It has failed of passage 19 times.

The latest effort to revise the capital punishment statutes came this year. The bill, introduced by McMillan, called for a four-year moratorium on the death penalty except in cases involving double killings, kidnap murders, slaying of law enforcement officers and killing in prison.

The assembly passed the measure by a close vote. But the senate governmental efficiency committee killed a similar bill. A proposal to put the issue to the voters did not even receive a formal hearing.

Unless Brown decides to call a special session, the issue will not come before the legislature until at least 1965.

Meanwhile, the population on death row grows. At San Quentin, 44 men are waiting; and at Corona institution for women, California's only other condemned prisoner, double - slayer Iva Kroeger, is waiting.

Of these 45 persons, only two know the exact date on which they are scheduled to die. Seventeen men have stays of execution; twenty-five men and Mrs. Kroeger have their cases on appeal.

It boils down to this: 43 persons, all formally sentenced by the courts to die, still do not know when—or if—they wall make the long walk to the apple-green gas chamber.

Yet, while judges sit in solemn contemplation, listening to the pleas of attorneys for their condemned clients, and while legislators in Sacramento argue about the pros and cons of capital punishment, the dreary routine on death row continues.

At 8:30 every morning, guards march down the double row, awakening the men and handing them their breakfasts. At 10:30, the convicts are permitted to leave their cells for three and a half hours.

They can watch television in a special death row recreation room; they can play ping pong, checkers, scrabble and other games; or they can visit a library which has been set up for their exclusive use adjacent to their cell block.

The men are allowed to study in their cells or read newspapers and magazines. A few have taken up painting as a hobby. Others are content to write letters, listen on earphones to the prison radio or talk to convicts in neighboring cells.

At 2 p.m., a combined dinner supper is served. The dinner consists of the same kind of food served to the other 4,400 inmates at the prison, but the condemned men receive larger portions. The supper, which the convicts are advised to save until evening, is generally comprised of fruit and sandwiches.

The light never go out on death row. But most of the men retire at about 10 p.m. All that remains in the silence are the 44 sleeping prisoners, a sergeant in charge and two gun rail officers, each armed with a rifle and a sidearm.

In a state where several executions have attracted national and international headlines (Barbara Graham, Burton Abbot, Caryl Chessman and Elizabeth (Ma) Duncan, none of the present condemned convicts has achieved widespread notoriety.

But some of the cases may yet come into nationwide prominence:

Paul Kern Imbler, a 45-year-old truck driver who was convicted of the 1961 murder of a Los Angeles grocer during a holdup, received a stay of execution when one of the witnesses at his trial repudiated his own testimony.

Joseph B. Morse, a 19-year-old San Diego youth, who beat his mother to death with a rock and then fatally bludgeoned his young sister with a baseball bat. The nature of his crimes and his youth may become controversial factors in future hearings.

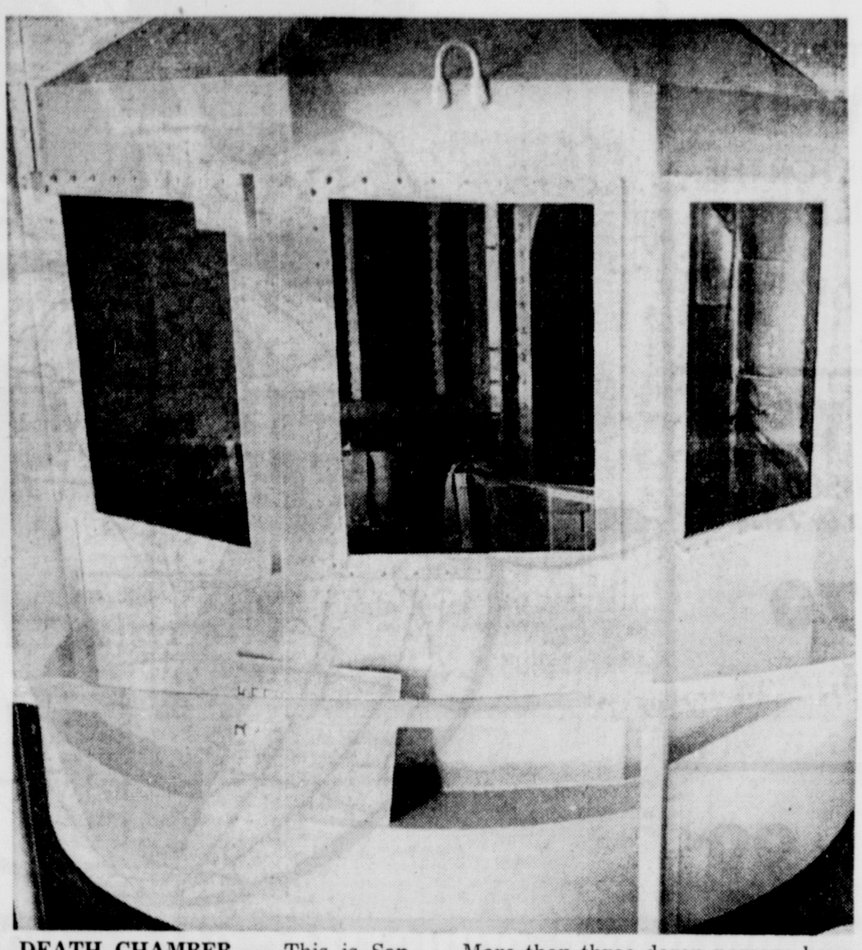
John F. Vlahovich, Donald G. Franklin and Joseph Rosoto, convicted as partners in crime in connection with the 1959 slaying of a Southern California bar owner. The men were sentenced as conspirators—not murderers —and the actual killer has never been caught. A primary suspect has been cleared by a voluntary lie detector test, and in addition, serious questions have been raised about the reliability of testimony in their trial.

Clyde Bates and Manuel Chavez have attracted some attention. Because they have been on death row for more than six years. They were sentenced to die for throwing a gasoline bomb into a Los Angeles tavern after the bartender refused to serve them. Six persons were killed

Several of the men on death row are double killers. Others are rape-slayers and still others killed during the course of a holdup (including Harold Spencer, who murdered a taxi cab driver while robbing him of $4.81.)

Whatever their crime, all the men know they will still have their day in court.

If the past 10 months of court actions have any significance, this means they all have a chance, perhaps a good chance, to escape death in the temporarily out - of - use gas chamber.



DEATH CHAMBER — This is San Quentin Prison's state execution room, the apple-green gas chamber. More than three dozen persons have been sentenced to death and await execution, but the last time the chamber was used was last January.

Appalachia—A Place Of Abysmal Poverty In U.S.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Very little of America's general affluence has rubbed off on Appalachia, a six-state mountainous strip in the Southeast. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., chairman of the president's Appalachian Regional Commission, recently told Congress it is a place of "abysmal poverty." Following is a report on one of the "have not" communities in the great mountains on the Tennessee-Kentucky border.)

By RICHARD OLIVER

CLAIRFIELD, Tenn. (UPI) — Junior Hall, 26, was a coal miner with a wife and four dirty-faced kids before he wound up in a hospital bed. Doctors say it will be years before he is able to work again.

Several weeks ago, the first frost of the season came to Tennessee and temperatures in the Appalachian Mountains dipped to below freezing. Hall lives in a two-room, rotted shack on the top of a "nob." They had run out of fuel for their ancient rusted stove. Their charity clothes barely covered them.

Hall went out one night to a truck mine to steal some coal for their fire, when a ton of slag — rocklike coal mine waste — crashed down on him. Although his cries for help were heard, he lay helpless for several hours with a shattered pelvis and a crushed chest. Hall is a "Yellowdog," a member of the Southern Labor Union, the rival of the United Mine Workers in the Tennessee coal country.

"I didn't care if he was a Yellerdog or a black man," said Amy Marlow, a grizzled and toothless woman in her 60s. "He said he was stealing coal to keep his family warm and I helped him." Amy said a group of men who heard Hall call for help refused to aid him because he is a "Yellerdog."

Besides what he can make from bootlegging mountain whisky, Carl Miller, sometimes earns $15 a week cutting the wooden beams that are used for support in the truck mine. His family, a wife and seven children live atop a high mountain in a broken-down shanty.

Recently, he was fined $9 plus court costs for refusing to send four of his children to school, down a dangerous, winding make-shift road covered with "red dog" — slag from the mines.

"My kids didn't have any shoes," he said. "Would you walk down that road without any shoes on?"

Miller's son, Henry, 13, is a frail boy with the physique of a 9-year-old. He lay feverish with a torn baseball cap on his head. The room in the clapboard shack was cold. His sickbed was fashioned out of wooden crates. His mother was nursing a five-week-old baby in the next room.

Henry was seriously ill. Besides a fever, he had a pain in his chest and complained that he had difficulty breathing. There would be no doctor. There wasn't even an aspirin.

Junior Hall, Carl Miller and young Henry are a few of the 4,000 inhabitants of Clear Fork Valley, an almost forgotten strip of land comprising the once-abundant towns of Fonde, Pruden, Valley Creek, Clairfield, Eagan, Anthras and Morley lying on Tennessee Highway 90 just south of the Kentucky state line.

Fifteen years ago, before the great labor battles in the Tennesee coal fields, the valley prospered in the post-war industrial boom. About 3,000 men worked some of the richest coal mines in the Southeast. The coal is still in abundance today, but the valley is decayed and dying.

Just 10 years ago, a tobacco-chewing oldtimer testified, an unwed mother and her child would have been run out of the valley on the next Southern Railways train passing through Clairfield. Today, promiscuity is quietly condoned and sometimes encouraged to bring checks that will buy food.

The State of Tennessee pays $50 for the first child, and up to $99 for subsequent production, in monthly welfare checks —as long as the unwed mother cannot, or does not, identify the father.

"We don't have much in this valley in the way of money," said Baitor Davis, a big man with huge hands and feet who mines in the valley when there is work. "We got plenty of love, though, and we all try to help everybody out."

Davis and his wife, Frankie, have 13 kids. When he is able to work he usually makes $4 a day.

Tom Marlow had 13 children too. But he "gave" a set of twins away. Marlow is a young-looking man in his mid-30s. Mabel, his wife, looks much older. She has long been toothless.

The Marlows live in an unpainted shack papered with old newspapers and magazines. The place reeks with the piercing stench of urine. The children are dirty and wear soiled clothes, donated mostly by the Tennessee Federation of Womens' Clubs. But there is no soap or running water, and there are only homemade brooms to scrape the collected mud off the uncovered, splintered wooden floors.

"I'm really a radio man," he said. "You know, communications. Yeah, I worked in Cincinnati and Detroit. I used to send a lot of money home, but I couldn't get an apartment. They say they'll take dogs and cats, but they don't want no children."

Trying to exist from day to day amidst sickness and disease is a fact of life in Clear Fork Valley. Recently at least 50 persons were stricken with deadly hepatitis in the valley. A few died and many will never be fully cured. Its source has not been found. Social diseases are rampant, as are other forms of human sickness and suffering.

Medical help lies several mountains beyond the valley. It could well be several hundred miles, for very few of the valley's God-fearing and hardy breed of mountainfolk would travel far to see a doctor. The nearest doctor or nurse is 25 miles away.

The people of this valley feel orphaned by their county, their state and their country.

"The only time we get to see one of those county politicians," said one man, "is around election time." Very few of the valley people have heard of —none remember ever seeing—their congressman, Rep. James (Jimmie) H. Quillen (R-Tenn.).

THIS WEEK In The World

Assassination Saddens World

BY U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The largest gathering of world leaders on U.S. shores took place in Washington this week for one of the saddest events in history: The burial of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

The assassination of the president shocked the world. Kings, princes, premiers and presidents or their representatives traveled to the nation's capital to pay their respects to the fallen leader of the Free World.

Many stayed over to meet with the new president, Lyndon B. Johnson, who only a few days before had taken the oath of office in an airplane before returning to Washington after Kennedy's assassination.

The world leaders, de Gaulle, Douglas-Home, Ehrhart and others, wanted to size-up the man from Texas who had this great burden of world leadership thrust upon him.

The death of President Kennedy had resulted in a slump in stock prices on the exchange markets of the world. After Johnson met with many of the leaders of Western Europe and Asia, it began to rise.

The new president had impressed the visiting dignitaries with his ability to cope with any situation he might be called upon to face as president of the United States.

The Free World, and much of the Communist world, was relieved.

But the sorrow and shock remained. The nation and the world poured out its heart for the grief-stricken widow and her family.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was referred to as "the valiant lady" by Richard Cardinal Cushing. Five times she visited the grave of her husband before departing for Hyannis Port on Cape Cod, Mass., for a family Thanksgiving reunion . . . the saddest ever.

Around The World Around The Clock

Caracas—Venezuela's pro-Castro terrorists kept up their attempts to scuttle scheduled elections tomorrow with bombs, threats and kidnapping. The underground Communists threatened to shoot anyone who walked on the city's streets after midnight Friday.

Washington—President Johnson ordered the chief justice of the Supreme Court to head-up an extraordinary investigating commission to study all facts, aspects, reports and rumors surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy. He also declared Cape Canaveral hereafter be known as Cape Kennedy and named the space center there after the slain president.

Vatican City—There was a feeling of disappointment among delegates over the apparent failure of the Ecumenical Council to adopt a clear-cut position on religious freedom before the session wound up—to be resumed next fall.

Saigon—Student and civilian unrest in the capital of South Viet Nam apparently forced the revolutionary junta into a shakeup of three major field commands.

Dallas—An attorney for Jack Ruby began preparing to defend the little nightclub owner who was seen by millions of television viewers as he killed Lee Harvey Oswald, accused of assassinating President Kennedy.

Arraignment In Conspiracy Case Put Off

Arraignment of Kenneth Robert Barrick of San Rafael on charges of falsification of corporate records and conspiracy to commit grand theft was put off yesterday until Dec. 13 in Butte County Superior Court.

Arraignment of Butte County co-defendants with Barrick in the grand theft conspiracy cases was put off to Dec. 13 a week ago.

Attorneys for the defendants on that date will be permitted to argue motions for dismissal on grounds of insufficient evidence.

The charges grow out of operations of Western States Construction and Builders Control, Inc., headed by Barrick, and Lon-Dell Construction Co., with which Barrick's firm shared office space in Paradise, Butte County. The offenses are alleged in connection with financing of homes and duplexes in Butte County.

Barrick was arrested by San Rafael police Nov. 7 outside his home at 36 Knight Drive in Glenwood.

Man Crashes Car; Asleep At Wheel

Floyd Junior Kirkendoll, 22, of Inverness was treated for a cut nose yesterday at Marin General Hospital after his car overturned about 2 a.m. on Nicasio Road, slightly more than a mile from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Corona Asks Policy On Emergencies

Supt. Bert C. Corona, who said Tuesday he had no apology to make for closing San Rafael schools early Friday after news of the president's death, said last night he would like to work from a board policy on such emergencies in the future.

C. Paul Bettini, chairman of the San Rafael Board of Education, said he at first approved of closing the schools early. But he reported at an adjourned board meeting last night that he has been receiving several phone calls and been having some second thoughts.

"I do think some parents have a justifiable complaint," Bettini said. He was speaking particularly about parents of primary grade pupils.

Bettini said he thought the district would be liable for injury to any child let out of school prior to regular closing time.

Boston, USC Quarterbacks Top AFL Draft Choices

Concannon was selected by the Boston Patriots.

Boston got the right to pick first in the AFL in a trade with the Denver Broncos.

Denver traded its No. 1 pick to Boston—obviously to clear the decks for the signing of the hometown quarterback — and received in return Boston's No. 1 pick, No. 3 pick and a player to be named later.

The New York Jets selected Matt Snell, Ohio State fullback, as their No. 1 choice.

Concannon is 6-foot-3, 200 pounds from Corchester, Mass., and is also a baseball and basketball player. He is 21 years old.

Beathard pitched the Trojans to the No. 1 national ranking and a Rose Bowl victory last season. He is 6-foot-1, 197, from El Segundo, Calif.

Snell is 6-foot-2 and 215.

Brown, 21, is from Cleveland, and may be selected by the NFL Browns. He has been tabbed one of the outstanding pro prospects among the college linemen. Nebraska is going to the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day.

Of the first four men selected, all are either playing today or still have a game on the schedule, and could not be signed immediately.

Houston picked Scott Appleton, the big Texas tackle, 235 and 6-foot-3.

FIRST ROUND

SECOND ROUND

THIRD ROUND

FOURTH ROUND

Looks Like Rams On Way Back To Fame, Fortune, Thanks To Youths

Jack Hanley

It now would appear that the Los Angeles Rams are on the road back to fame and fortune in the National Football League. After dropping five straight this season, the Rams have won four of their last six. They go after another win tomorrow in Kezar Stadium against the 49ers and could finish third in the NFL Western Conference after winding up in the cellar last season.

Jack Teele, the Ram publicity man, reports that Los Angeles fans once again are talking about "our Rams" and not "those guys." Accordingly, Los Angeles Coliseum attendance has perked up and a crowd of 70,000 is expected for the Ram-Packer game Dec. 7.

"Not long ago the Rams were constantly criticized for their draft selections," said Teele. "But we are where we are now because of our draft picks two years ago. Our three top choices in 1961 -- Roman Gabriel, Merlin Olsen and Joe Carollo — now are performing like veterans although they are only sophs.

"There was bitter criticism when Del Shofner was traded to the Giants for New York's No. 1 draft choice. We used that No. 1 pick, coupled with our own No. 1 choice, to tab Gabriel and Olsen in the first round. Our second round choice was Carollo."

GABRIEL, 6-3½, 225, is a rugged and poised quarterback whose collegiate reputation at North Carolina State was almost legendary. Olsen, 6-5, 265, was the NFL's "defensive rookie of the year" last season despite the cellar finish of the Rams. Carollo, a 6-2, 260, offensive tackle out of Notre Dame, landed on the "All-Pro Rookie" NFL team last year.

OLSEN, ONE of the greatest linemen ever to come out of Utah State, has been teamed with an old veteran, Rosey Grier, in the heart of the Ram defensive line. Carollo has been teamed in the same manner on offense with another old pro, Frank Varrichione.

"The combinations of youth and veteran in both instances are now operating so smoothly it is difficult to tell veteran from sophomore," said Teele. "Coach Harland Svare declares that Carollo is blocking like a five-year veteran and that Grier, Svare's old teammate on the Giants, is playing the best football of his life."

GABRIEL, of course, is not teamed with anyone. As a quarterback, he must operate on his own.

"Gabriel, under the urging of backfield coach Don Heinrich, doesn't hesitate to take full charge now in the huddle or give a tongue lashing to a blocker who fails to provide him with the necessary protection," says Teele. "He now stands in the pocket as good as any quarterback in the league."

Browns, St. Louis Vie In Big One Tomorrow

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Vengeful Cleveland brings Jimmy Brown and company to St. Louis tomorrow for a National Football League game with the surprising Cardinals which could help decide the Eastern Division championship.

The Browns, defeated 20-14 by St. Louis at Cleveland two weeks ago, are in a three-way tie with the Cards and New York for first place. Each has an 8-3 record.

For the Cardinals, it's their third straight clutch game. After knocking off the Browns, St. Louis moved to New York and toppled the Giants 24-17, throwing the Eastern race into a triple tie.

The losers could be out of the running for the Eastern championship, but there's a possibility that a slip by any of the top three teams could cause a four-way race. The Pittsburgh Steelers, 6-3-2, meet the cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Eagles at Pittsburgh, while the Giants journey to Dallas' Cotton Bowl and a battle with the Cowboys, 3-8-0.

OTHER GAMES

In other NFL games, Baltimore, 5-6, plays at Washington, 3-8; Los Angeles, 4-7, goes to San Francisco, 2-9, and Chicago 9-1-1, the Western Division leader, hosts Minnesota, 4-7. Green Bay, 9-2-1, missed a chance to gain a game on Chicago Thursday, managing only a 13-13 tie with Detroit, 4-7-1.

After this weekend, each team will have only two games remaining. Browns and Cardinals both must play Dallas, and St. Louis has a home game with the Eagles. The Giants meet Washington and Pittsburgh in their final two games, and Cleveland plays Detroit and Washington.

Miami-Alabama Game Postponed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's televised football game with Alabama will be played in the Orange Bowl Dec. 14 instead of Dec. 7.

The date change was made in consequence of rescheduling the Army-Navy game, also a SBS TV feature, to Dec. 7.

Television coverage had been offered on the Miami-Alabama day-time encounter.

The Army-Navy game had been postponed from Nov. 30 because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

The Inverness Equestrians will hold another "point-to-point" event, a simulated fox hunt without hounds, on Dec. 29 after holding the first such event yesterday in Inverness.

The course yesterday consisted of four runs of approximately two miles each, with eight jumps and natural field obstacles. The club is hoping to form the third recognized hunt club in California.

USF, Stanford Rated Among West College Cage Powers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Coast college basketball takes a limited step into the 1963-64 season tonight but it will be up to a week before all the area's major schools are in action.

University of San Francisco, odds-on choice to win the West Coast Athletic Conference championship, entertains Nevada while Loyola, figured for a high WCAC finish, visits Utah State in the feature games.

Contests involving five major schools were canceled or postponed when President Kennedy's death caused a shift of last Saturday's football games to today.

Oregon at Stanford and Oregon State at Washington games were postponed until next week and California's opener against its alumni was canceled.

Still on the schedule are San Diego State at Pepperdine, San Jose State at Santa Barbara and San Francisco State at Portland.

USF has back seven of the eight players who led the Dons to the WCAC title and NCAA regional semi-finals last season. Its headliner is 6-8 junior center Ollie Johnson, who averaged 17.3 points and 14.3 rebounds per game, and canned field goals at a 56.7 per cent rate as a sophomore.

Loyola was only 10-16 last year but has most of its team back, including Dick Schiendler and Wayne Boehle, its two top scorers.

San Jose expects an accurate-shooting, quick, small and inexperienced team though its squad is so balanced coach Stu Inman is having a tough time naming five starters.

Santa Barbara is in effect a provisional newcomer to the WCAC this year. It plays a full league schedule but results of its games won't count in the standing even if it won 14 straight.

UCLA, Stanford and Oregon State stand out with USF as the west's court powers. Oregon State opens Monday at Washington, Stanford entertains Oregon Monday and UCLA waits until next Friday to open at home against Brigham Young.

High Ranked Net Stars At Belvedere

Two nationally-ranked juniors will play special tennis exhibition matches at the Belvedere Tennis Club tomorrow. There is no admission charge and the matches are open to the public. Juniors are particularly invited to attend.

The singles match which will be played at 12 noon will be between Jim Beste, ranked number two nationally in the juniors, and Gary Rose, ranked fourth.

Beste is on the Stanford tennis team and is from Baton Rouge, la. Rose is from Orinda and is on the University of California tennis team.

A doubles match is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. between Ron Bachelder, Paul Wilkins and Jim Beste, Gary Rose.

The matches are being arranged by Wilkins who is the new tennis professional and manager of the Belvedere Club. He was formerly at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch of Carmel Valley. As a player he was Texas State Champion at 18, National Intercollegiate doubles champion in 1957, twice named to the All-American Squad. He has played in all major U.S. tournaments, including three times at Forest Hills.

As a tennis instructor he has developed many of the outstanding junior players in the country and is planning a vigorous tennis program for the club juniors, according to club president Walter Machette.

Private or group lessons for adults are also being planned.

Ex-Racing Champ Lee Wallard Dies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)— Lee Wallard, famed race driver and winner of the 1951 Indianapolis 500 Speed Classic, died yesterday in a veterans hospital here of a heart condition. He was 53.

Wallard was admitted to the hospital several weeks ago. His 1951 victory was marred by an accident four days later when he was badly burned in a race at Reading, Pa.

Low-Cost 'Chopper'

Fans Boo As Portland Dumps Seals

The cheers have turned to boos as the San Francisco Seals slip further from the Western Hockey League lead.

A crowd of 7,194 fans booed lustily last night at the Cow Palace as the defending champion Seals dropped a 7-2 decision to the Portland Buckaroos. The defeat was San Francisco's third loss in succession.

Both teams failed to score in the opening period, but Portland skaters found the range for five goals in the second period. San Francisco was never in contention after that.

Tommy McVie paced the Buckaroos in scoring with a pair of goals. Joining him in the scoring column were Bill Saunders, Art Jones, Pat Hannagan, Sid Finney and Gerry Goyer.

Tar Cagers Hope For Another Win

College of Marin's basketball team will be hoping for its second straight win tonight at 8 o'clock in the Drake High School gym when the Tars battle rough San Mateo College.

Cal Riemcke's cagers opened their season last night in great fashion with a 71-67 victory over Diablo Valley College in Concord. It was an easy win for the Tars with all 15 of the basketballers on the squad seeing action.

By intermission, College of Marin had a 37-20 lead and increased it to 59-34 by the end of the third quarter. The entire third string finished up the game for the Tars.

Brad Busch was the high scorer for the Mariners with 22 points. Also hitting in double figures for Marin were Jay Johnson with 14, Pete Bardea with 13 and Ron O'Connell with 12.

Pete Bardea was credited with a great job on the boards by coach Riemcke as the returning starter led the Tar rebounders. Also rebounding well were Bill Wallace and Bill Hodgson.

"I was extremely pleased with the showing in our first game," Riemcke said. He had praise for his athletes' execution of the fast break and their ball handling on offense.

Also praised were newcomers to the squad Johnson from Redwood and O'Connell from Marin Catholic, both guards. "They will be a good pair this season," Riemcke said.

Corinthian Regatta To Be Held Tomorrow

The second regatta of the Corinthian Yacht Club's Mid Winter Series will be held tomorrow in San Francisco Bay with the first boats leaving the starting line at 11:30 a.m.

The program was scheduled for last Sunday but was postponed because of the death of President John F. Kennedy.

E. BAY KIDS WIN WARNER BOWL GAME

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pittsburgh, Calif., Mallards finished an undefeated, unscored-upon football season by scoring a 33-0 victory over Philadelphia's Mayfair A.C. yesterday in the fifth annual Pop Warner Disneyland Bowl 130-pound football game played in the rain and on a muddy field.

Arnett Ready To Face The 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams will be able to use halfback Jon Arnett for the first time in three weeks when they meet the San Francisco 49ers tomorrow at Kezar Stadium.

Ram Coach Harland Svare said Arnett won't start but will play if needed. "Jon's been running well in practice this week," Svare said, "and he's healthy again."

Arnett had been having trouble with a knee. The last time he carried the ball in a game, at Chicago three weeks ago, the knee buckled when he tried to cut.

49ers Vs. Rams Tomorrow

The San Francisco 49ers will try to put two good halves together in their National Football League game with the Los Angeles Rams tomorrow.

The two good halves idea was voiced by Coach Jack Christiansen as the two teams prepared for their 28th meeting dating to 1950.

The Rams have 15 victories, including a 28-21 win this season at Los Angeles, against 11 losses and 1 tie.

The 49ers lost to Green Bay 28-10 last week.

"Our second - half effort against Green Bay was one of our best all season, comparing favorably with our Chicago Bear game and the second half we had against Dallas," Christiansen said.

The 49ers have lost nine games, and have won only over Chicago and Dallas this fall.

The Rams dropped their first five games of the season, but defeated Detroit 28-21 and Baltimore 17-16 the last two times out and are now 4-7.

Rams' quarterback Roman Gabriel will direct a balanced striking force. In the last game with the 49ers he tossed a pass for a touchdown, and crossed the goal himself for another.

Gabriel will be tossing passes to capable receivers — Carroll Dale, Jim Phillips and John Adams. Dick Bass, Ben Wilson, Jon Arnett and Art Perkins will fill backfield spots.

Lamar McHan will quarterback the 49ers, and Monty Stickles will replace Gary Knafelc as starting right end for the first time in six weeks.

Stickles has suffered from a knee injury.

Phil Wallace Rolls 653 Set To Top Greenbrae Bowling

Phil Wallace put together games of 223, 223 and 207 for a 653 series in the 915 Classic League to top the action for the past week at Greenbrae Lanes.

Builders Resume Action Tomorrow

The Billings-Hutchison Builders of Marin will play the Acme Carpet baseballers in an Alameda Winter League game tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Washington Park in Alameda.

Slated for mound duty for the Builders are Bob DeRosa and Ron Cole facing southpaw John Oldham, ex Cincinnati hurler. Included in the Acme lineup will be the hard-hitting Jesse Gonder, clean-up hitting catcher for the New York Mets.

Last Sunday's Alameda league games were cancelled because of the death of President Kennedy.

Persol Wins Video Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — After only 10 pro fights Johnny Persol is ready to step into the light heavyweight division's top 10.

The undefeated, 22-year-old Brooklyn shipping clerk served notice on the other top-notchers by whipping ninth-ranked Allen Thomas of Chicago in a televised 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden last night.

The upset victory made it 10 straight for the poised youngster who turned pro in January after winning all of his 85 amateur fights.

The officials had Persol ahead by the following rounds scores: judge Bill Recht, 6-2-2; judge Joe Armstrong, 7-3; and referee Joe LeScalzo, 5-4-1. The AP's card had Persol in front, 7-3.

EDMONTON (AP) — Dave Skrein, who guided the British Columbia Lions to their first Grey Cup berth in his second full year at the helm, has been selected Coach of the Year in the Canadian Football League.

Warriors Fall To Baltimore In Closing Seconds, 100-99

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — A balanced attack and a crucial break gave the Baltimore Bullets a hard-fought victory over the San Francisco Warriors last night.

The Bullets, with three men scoring better than 20 points and five men in double figures, edged the Warriors 100-99 on Terry Dischinger's foul shot with three seconds left to play.

The Bullets gained control of the ball with six seconds to play after Wilt Chamberlain bobbled it. Baltimore called time out and then passed in to Dischinger, who was fouled as he drove for the basket.

Terry missed his first shot, but the bonus rule gave him a second chance and the shot that won the game.

Chamberlain again led all players with 38 points, but his teammates were unable to muster a scoring punch to go with Wilt's output.

The game was close throughout. The Warriors built up a five-point lead in the fourth quarter, which was the widest margin of the night.

Veteran Si Green, playing his best game of the season, paced Baltimore with 25 points. Dischinger and Walt Bellamy had 21 each.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

STRONGER ROLE

Church Council Asks More Say In Affairs

United Press International

The General Assembly of the National Council of Churches gathered in Philadelphia this weekend to try to find ways for the church to play a greater role in the decision-making on critical national and world issues.

The assembly, governing body of the biggest religious organization in the United States, is expected to draw 5,000 top clerical and lay leaders for the week-long session, starting tomorrow.

The council is a fellowship of 31 major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in America, representing 40 million churchgoers.

The assembly's discussions, aimed at the man and woman in the pew, will focus on local church unity and the ministry of the layman. It is expected to take a public stand on civil rights, among other issues.

The late President John F. Kennedy was to have addressed the assembly in Philadelphia's Constitution Hall Tuesday night. On that night, Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., will conduct a special worship service in Kennedy's memory. The Philadelphia Orchestra will play. The Roman Catholic church is sending five observers to the assembly.

Seminary Contest Ends In Tie

A three-way tie for first place has resulted in one of the highest sums to be awarded as prize money in the history of the annual Shorter Catechism Contest at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo.

Seniors Verne Alexander and Darol Valder and special student Marjorie Casebier each achieved a perfect score on the 107 questions of the Westminster Shorter Catechism. Ordinarily in case of tie the prize money is shared by the winners, but in this case each winner submitted answers so nearly perfect that the full award of $400 was granted all three.

Close behind were juniors Herbert Freeman Jr., and Miss Joyce Manson, tied for second. Each received a $300 prize.

The contest is made possible through an endowment from the late Samuel Robinson of Pasadena, the income of which is awarded as prizes each year.

Inquisition Secrets Disclosed

By JAIME PLENN
United Press International

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Secrets of the Spanish Inquisition, including the Jewish origin of many Latin American families, are being revealed here to scholars as a result of greater accessibility of the Roman Catholic church tribunal's records of several hundred years ago.

The newly available material, provided with cooperation of Mexican authorities, was described here by a North American scholar, Dr. Seymour Liebman, formerly of Miami, Fla., who has been engaged in research for several years on a projected "History of the Jews in Mexico."

Liebman paid tribute to earlier scholars who have dug into Inquisition records in various places, including Spain and other European countries, in South America and Mexico. He also praised the scribes of the Inquisition, whose records, he said, "are almost fantastic in the wealth of detail and the completeness of some of the trials."

Thousands of human dramas, "more exciting than any work of fiction," are to be found in the Inquisition records, Liebman said.

He cited one unusually interesting story, that of Francisco Maldonado de Silva, who was baptized as a Catholic, but became a Jew and then discovered that his father, who practised the Catholic faith, had been born a Jew, had been brought before the Inquisition as a heretic and released as a penitent, with a monetary fine.

Young de Silva was born about 1593 and lived in Chile and Peru, Liebman said. He then told of the influence exerted on de Silva by a book written in Spain in the 15th century by a Jew who had become a Catholic.

"That man in Spain," Liebman said, "was Rabbi Solomon ha-Levi, who had voluntarily embraced Christianity to further his personal ambitions, according to researchers.

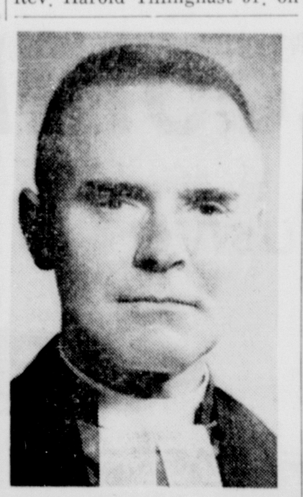
PASTOR WARNS MINSTRELS ARE PASSE

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—A Methodist minister protested this week against blackfaced minstrel shows produced by church men's groups or youth fellowships.

"They seek to make humor based on unfair and untrue conceptions of Negro life," said Rev. Carroll A. Doggett Jr. of Loch Raven Methodist church.

"Of course, some Negroes are lazy and undisciplined," he added in an article in Christian Advocate, a Methodist magazine for clergymen. "But minstrel shows cast aspersions upon a whole segment of society, and thus are grossly unfair to the many responsible Negroes working hard to be worthy citizens and Christians."

"An understanding Christian brother does not laugh at the sins and weakness in other men," he added. "He helps to overcome them."



ADVENT SPEAKERS

Rt. Rev. Richard Millard (right), suffragen bishop of the Diocese of California, will celebrate the corporate communion at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, San Rafael, at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow, marking the beginning of Advent. He will speak later at a breakfast meeting on his recent trip to Russia. Very Rev. Julian Bartlett, dean of Grace Cathedral, will speak on the role of the cathedral church at 9 and 11 a.m. services and to the adult class at 9:45 a.m.

READY FOR TOMORROW — Paul Schurman stands ready to welcome members of Aldersgate Methodist Church to the recently completed buildings at Nova Albion Way and Montecillo Road in Terra Linda. The 9:30 a.m. service tomorrow will mark the church's second anniversary and be the first service to be held in the new facility.

Aldersgate Marks 2nd Year With Move To New Building

It will be the first service in their new church at the corner of Nova Albion Way and Montecillo Road, and it will mark the second anniversary of the formation of the church.

Rev. Richard H. Walsh of Santa Rosa, superintendent of the Redwood Empire District of the Methodist Church will speak at the anniversary service at 9:30 a. m.

The church was organized by Rev. Harold Tillinghast Jr. on Dec. 31, 1961. Rev. Paul Schurman replaced him in April, 1962.

The church has grown from 43 members to 98 full members and 90 preparatory members.

The new buildings, constructed by Eichler Homes Inc., cost $55,000. The multi-purpose room will serve as the sanctuary until a proposed, larger building is constructed. There is also an education building that will be occupied for the first time tomorrow.

With the new educational unit, the church tomorrow will be able to add an 11:45 a. m. class for young people and adults.

Fresco Loss Feared In Crumbling Chapel

The chapel houses the earliest, most extensive and best preserved works of the great frescoist Giotto.

It stands in a public garden in the center of Padua, not far from the town's main thoroughfare, along which rumbles a constant flow of heavy buses and trucks.

Their reverberation, carried through the soil, had been shaking the walls of the Scrovegni so hard that iron sustaining rods were anchored from wall to wall to keep them from caving in.

On a recent morning inspection, the chapel's custodian found the rods had snapped from the pressure and the building was in danger of collapse.

The entire chapel was then encompassed in a frame of tubular steel scaffolding, to which the roof was attached to keep its weight off the walls. The immediate danger thus relieved, an architectural commission was appointed to decide what to do next to assure the safety of Giotto's works.

The Scrovegni Chapel, also known as the Chapel of the Madonna dell'Arena, was built in 1303-05 next to a palace that was pulled down in 1820.

It was here that Giotto painted his revolutionary and enduring frescoes of scenes from the life of the Virgin and of Christ.

Giotto's pictorial inventiveness, volume and composition in these frescoes is matched only in the Upper Basilica Church of Assisi where he painted his cycle of frescoes on the life of St. Francis.

The chapel has stood through thick and thin.

In World War I, small Austrian bombs carried by light planes fell on the city. They missed the chapel.

They destroyed the 13th century Augustinian Church of the Ermitani and with it the Ovetari Chapel with its famous frescoes by Mantegna.

But the Scrovegni Chapel was intact. Paduans began to think that the frescoes of Giotto had a charmed life.

That life is now held up by steel tube scaffolding. But that is only an emergency measure.

Rerouting traffic has been mentioned to remove the cause of the vibration which has weakened the chapel. But Padua is the fastest-growing city in the industrializing north of Italy.

Now, ask the city authorities, can we close our principal artery even to save Giottos? The question must be answered soon. Cities like Padua can grow today, change and build tomorrow. But there is no one any more to paint Giottos.

Second Vatican Council Session Making Strides

By LOUIS CASSELS

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—At its first session, in the fall of 1962, the Ecumenical Council did not accomplish very much. It got bogged down in endless debate, and had to grope its way painfully to efficient procedures.

But the second session, now drawing to a close, has been tremendously fruitful. It has completed action on some projects, and initiated others, which will lead to far-reaching changes not only in the internal life of the Catholic Church but also in its relations with other religious bodies.

Since they reconvened last Sept. 29, the council fathers have:

—Finished work on a lengthy liturgical reform document designed to convert Catholic laity from silent spectators into active participants in public worship. Among many other things, it authorizes use of modern languages instead of Latin in large portions of the Mass and in the administration of such sacraments as baptism and marriage.

—Endorsed by an overwhelming majority a theological doctrine known in council jargon as "the collegiality of bishops" which affirms that bishops have a divine right to share with the Pope in the government of the universal church. This doctrine, which has the full support of Pope Paul VI, is intended to correct the emphasis on papal supremacy which has characterized Catholic thought since the last Ecumenical Council in 1870, and to restore the much more ancient concept of the Pope as the head of the college of bishops.

—Begun work on practical measures for enhancing the powers of bishops (and correspondingly reducing the vast power now exercised in the name of the Pope by the Roman Curia.) Proposals for decentralization of church government, considered by the fathers in two weeks of sharp debate, include the establishment of a "senate" of bishops in Rome to which national hierarchies would send elected representatives.

—Approved the restoration of the ancient order of deacons, which goes back to the New Testament, in areas where there is a serious shortage of priests. Deacons, unlike priests, may be married men. They will be ordained clergymen, and will perform many of the functions of priests, but will not be authorized to celebrate Mass or hear confessions.

—Began debate on a document which seeks to create an entirely new climate in interfaith relations. It recognizes the right of Protestant churches to be regarded as Christian bodies in which the Holy Spirit is authentically at work. It calls on Catholics, from bishops to laity, to do all in their power to "remove obstacles" to Christian reunion and to achieve greater mutual love and understanding with the "separated brethren."

There probably will be two more sessions—one in the fall of 1964, and another in the fall of 1965.

That forecast comes from one of the four moderators named by the Pope to preside over the council. Pope Paul has announced that there will be a third session in 1964, but has not officially set the date.

The agenda of unfinished business awaiting council action is so long that there is no real prospect of cleaning it up next fall. Thus a fourth session in 1965 seems inevitable.

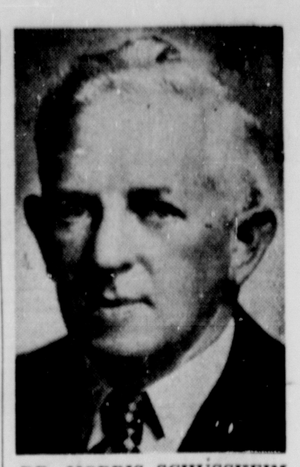
The plan to wind up the council by 1965 also reflects a conviction that the fathers have already come to grips with the most vital issues confronting them.

The only document remaining on the council agenda which compares in long-range importance to those which have already been taken up is the famous "Schema 17" which is being drafted by a special commission headed by Leo Cardinal Suenens of Belgium, leader of the liberal wing and close confidante of the Pope. It is entitled "the Church and the Modern World," and is supposed to go into a whole range of topics — from Communism to population control — which are current subjects of controversy.

This document may not come up until the 1965 session. But when it does reach the floor, it is likely to produce the most explosive debate and the biggest news headlines of the council.

Even before the second council convened, Pope Paul was trying to make clear to his old colleagues in the Roman Curia —the citadel of stand-pat conservatives—that he meant business about reform. In a remarkable address to the Curia on Sept. 21, he said bluntly that it deserved criticism and needed reform. He added he would not tolerate any efforts on the part of Curia members —who are supposed to function as the Pope's secretaries—to sidetrack the work of the council.

It was the first time in centuries that a Pope had administered such a brisk public spanking to the Vatican bureaucracy which wields vast powers in his name. And its sting was increased by the fact that Paul VI spoke as an "alumnus of the Curia—one who had served in the Vatican nearly 30 years. It was almost as though a graduate of a boarding school had returned as headmaster, and was telling the boys: "I know very well how the cow gets into the dormitory and we aren't having any more of it."



DR. MORRIS SCHUSSHEIM
New rabbi in Marin

Kol Shofar Sets Rabbi Installation

Marin's conservative Jewish congregation, Congregation Kol Shofar, will install its new rabbi in services at 8:15 p. m. at the Marin Jewish Community Center, San Rafael, Dec. 8.

Dr. Morris Schussheim comes to Marin from Providence, R.I., where he served the state's oldest conservative congregation for 40 years.

Among Bay Area spiritual leaders attending the service will be Rabbis Saul E. White, Bernard Ducoff and William Dalin of San Francisco, Rabbi Harold Schulseiss of Oakland, and Rabbi Morton J. Hoffman of Congregation Rodef Sholom, Santa Venetia.

Rabbi Schussheim received his bachelor's degree from City College of New York and a master's degree from Columbia University. He was awarded an honorary doctorate in education by the Rhode Island College of Education. He received a Doctor of Divinity degree from the Hebrew Theological Seminary of America.

REAL ESTATE
MAN OR WOMAN
With or Without Experience

We are looking for a man or woman who will endeavor to make real estate his or her) livelihood.
We expect you to work hard and abide by intelligent rules of good organization. For our part, we shall do everything to make your work pleasant and profitable for you
If you are new in real estate, we shan't just assign you a desk and let you learn through your own mistakes, or miss many opportunities through lack of experience.
We shall plan your work with you and assist you in every way so that you start earning as soon as possible.
We do all financing, escrow & administrative work (including listing files), so that our salesmen may apply their time to productive work. We have a trade-in guarantee plan which will enable you to make additional sales.
Our bonus & profit sharing plan brings the commission split up to 75% of gross—depending on production.

SEVEN DISTINCT PLANS

"THE CASTLEWOOD"

One of our most popular 3 bedroom plans. Lovely sunken living room highlighted by a raised hearth, floor-to-ceiling fireplace and picture window. Family room with indoor barb-cue, extra large kitchen-dining area. Just right for the growing family. $26,800.

"THE BRENTWOOD"

Something unusual in subdivision home building—5 full bedrooms, large family room with fireplace, spacious family-style kitchen-dining, formal living room, 2 baths. Where in Marin County can the large family find so much usable living area for this price? $30,950 & $31,500.

"THE MAPLEWOOD"

An all-time favorite—The roomy two-story plan—Making a strong comeback on the present day home market. This home features 3 large bedrooms plus a den(or 4th bedroom). Formal dining room as well as informal dining area. Cheery family room with built-in wet bar, inside laundry room, & 2½ baths. Compare the value and space. $29,500.

"THE BRIARWOOD"

A very functional 4 bedroom 2 bath home that is comparable in many ways to our 5 bedroom model. It has a formal living room completely separated from the family room. Attractive Swedish fireplace in some models. The spacious kitchen arrangement is a favorite with the housewife. $28,160.

The Husband Said . . .

"Selling my house was no trouble at all. All I did was tell my broker to "Put it in Multiple Listing." He handled every single detail . . . He found the buyer, arranged the finance for him and closed the deal. All I did was sign the deed."

The Wife Said . . .

"The thing I like the most was the way they showed my house. They never showed it until they had first called and made an appointment. They only showed it to people who were qualified to purchase it. All lookers were accompanied by a broker who answered all of their questions pertaining to the property."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

In croup, the muscles of the larynx go into spasm, causing a peculiar type of cough. But inflammation rarely is confined to the voice box; any part of the respiratory passageway, which extends from the tip of the nose to the far end of the lungs, may be involved. As a result, bronchitis, penumonia, or other respiratory disease may coexist with croup.

Croup may be so mild, the parents scarcely are aware that the child is ill during the day. He may have nothing more than a slight nasal discharge or huskiness of the voice. But the situation changes at night. After the youngster falls asleep, he awakens with a terrific bout of coughing, which has a characteristic barking, brassy, hollow sound.

IT IS A FRIGHTENING experience for the parents, especially when the little one is found sitting up in bed, grasping the throat, and struggling for breath. These spells are as typical of croup as the whoop is of whooping cough.

The sharp, rasping sounds come from air as it passes through the obstructed larynx. The noise produced may be so loud it can be heard at a distance. During the paroxysm, the face becomes red, the lips blue, and the veins in the forehead distended. Between breaths, the tyke can hardly talk except in painful whispers.

THE BOUT CONTINUES unless something is done to relax the spastic larynx. It is here that the croup kettle developed its reputation. The inhalation of steam brings relief, especially when the windows are closed and the room is warmed. Any source of steam does the trick—a tea kettle on a hot plate or turning on the hot shower if the bathroom opens into the bedroom.

The parainfluenza viruses have been isolated from children with croup. These microorganisms settle in the larynx and windpipe, where they are capable of producing these symptoms. Many youngsters with croup also are highstrung, which may contribute to spasms of the larynx.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

HEAT AND PRESSURE

R. D. writes: My doctor brought my pressure down from 180 to 158, where it stayed until summer came. Does hot weather increase the pressure?

REPLY

Extreme heat may increase the tension if it forces the heart to work harder to maintain a normal body temperature. But the readings fluctuate frequently in hypertension.

INFECTIONS AND RHEUMATISM

P. M. writes: Can sinus infection cause sore leg muscles?

REPLY

This is a moot question because there is ample proof that foci of infection are not the cause of arthritis or muscle soreness. On the other hand, all infections should be eliminated even though unrelated to aching.

HERNIA MAY STRANGULATE

K. C. writes: Is an inguinal hernia likely to become cancerous if neglected?

REPLY

No. Strangulation is the most dangerous aspect of hernia. A loop of bowel is caught in the hernia sac and gangrene follows if it cannot be pushed back into the abdominal cavity.

ALLERGIC TO BUGS

A. D. writes: Please explain bacterial allergy.

REPLY

San Rafael Board Of Education Adopts Policy On Book Complaints

The San Rafael Board of Education, after 45 minutes of discussion yesterday, adopted a policy for handling complaints on books and other instructional materials used in the classroom.

Supt. Bert C. Corona presented his recommendation to the board at an adjourned meeting last night. The recommendation, calling for an ad hoc or temporary committee of five to seven district "educators" to study complaints, was similar to the recommendation of a group of high school teachers submitted to the board Tuesday.

Corona said his recommendation of last night was the first he has made to the board on the subject. Anything earlier has been in the nature of working drafts for the school staff.

It was such a working draft six weeks ago that drew fire from Board Member Bella H. Aaron. She objected vigorously to the idea of having outsiders, such as a representative of the county schools office and the state department of education on a review committee. Her criticism, touched off the announcement two weeks later that a parent-citizens committee had been formed (no names disclosed) to watch over the schools in San Rafael.

The recommendation adopted last night provides for outsiders only in an advisory or consulting capacity.

But a parent, Mrs. David I. Williams, 47 Jewell Street, San Rafael, said not having outsiders on the committee amounts to having only a committee of teachers reviewing materials that they have adopted in the first place.

Board Member Walter J. Doll said he could understand why some parents look upon teachers with suspicion. He is a parent himself, he explained, and the big worry is about your own child. But as a board member, he knew teachers to be highly competent. They can be trusted to do a fair, honest job in reviewing material, he said.

Doll also said the temporary committee, formed to study a specific complaint, would be made up district wide.

A complaint involving high school English instruction, for instance, would result in committee drawn from the English departments of both Terra Linda and San Rafael high schools.

Richard Gladstein, an attorney who lives at 168 Palm Avenue, San Rafael, spoke in favor of the recommendation and objected to including outsiders on the committee. Going to outsiders would amount to abdication of authority by the board of education, he said.

Social science teacher Prosper Boutet, humanities teacher Jack Curtin and English teacher Edward Cunningham, all of San Rafael High, spoke in favor of the recommendation.

There was no mention last night of the U. S. History supplemental book list objected to by Mrs. Charles G. Strom, 260 Linden Lane, San Rafael.

A month ago, the board of education agreed that her complaint over "negative" books and books that she thought had little direct bearing to U. S. history should be considered as soon as a policy was adopted.

But, evidently, if Mrs. Strom wants her objections considered, she will have to write out her complaint on a prescribed form, sign it and submit it to Principal Alfred Thomson of San Rafael High School. That's what the new policy says.

At the start of last night's session, R. B. Pence of Mill Valley, representing the Marin Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, presented but did not read a statement on preservation of academic freedom in schools.

THANKSGIVING BLESSING

Mrs. Rosemary Kalberer, 42, had more to do last night than prepare a Thanksgiving feast for her husband and 14 children. She was busy giving birth to her 15th baby, a girl. She's shown in Portland, Ore., hospital with husband, Joseph, and seven pound, 15 ounce new arrival. Lineup now consists of nine boys and six girls. (AP Wirephoto)

EDUCATION PROBLEMS

State Is Expected To Use More Control

(Sixth In a Series)
By Education News Service

California high schools may expect more direct and authoritative participation of the State Board of Education in determining content and nomenclature of courses.

The aim will be to assure greater uniformity of preparation so that freshman Joe Blow at Dry Gulch High will get the same instruction in a comparable math or science course as freshman Richard Roe at Dangle High in another part of the state.

Members of the state board's committee on high school standards — Nathaniel Colley, chairman, and Dorman Commons—were shocked to find at their first meeting that the state board has, but has not used, the right to pass on the content of high school courses.

"I was most shocked to make this discovery after all this time," Commons said. "Our authority is given in Section 7700 of the Education Code, but we've never used it. The reason we haven't is that the department of education has no established standards by which to judge course content."

The two-man committee decided that its first function as part of a 10-committee effort by the state board to write a "master plan of public education" for California should be to recommend the development of such standards.

Frank B. Lindsay, chief of the bureau of secondary education in the State Department of Education, who is serving as committee aide, said course contents do not vary too widely.

"Entrance requirements of the universities and colleges tend to keep them substantially comparable," he noted.

Lindsay reported that the only departmental surveillance over high school course content comes in an annual report filed by every district in October as required by state regulations.

"The only cases I know in which high school courses have been disapproved by the department have been when the course syllabus were not approved by local governing boards," he said.

Lindsay said a program of checking the offerings of the 300-plus high school districts in the state would be a tremendous task the first time and would require additional department staff. However, he said the job would then ease off as only new courses were considered.

Colley pointed out standardization of course nomenclature is also needed, citing the fact that "general science" and "world science" are labels for the same content.

"Here's one that's always been dear to my heart," said Lindsay. "'Non-curricular mathematics.' You guess what that means!"

Another unexercised state board power is that of prescribing high school graduation requirements.

Two items the committee will consider in this field are the possibility of categorizing diplomas—for instance indicating on the sheepskin that a student had completed a college preparatory course; and the possibility of statewide exams prior to awarding of diplomas.

Stinson Open Fire Hours Reaffirmed

Stinson Beach fire protection district commissioners Wednesday night reaffirmed hours covering open burning at 7 to 11 a.m.

They said they do not wish to conform to county regulations allowing burning until 5 p.m. with a permit because of frequent afternoon winds and because the district is within the West Marin watershed, which is considered a "hot spot."

The commission approved replacement of the present beacon light and siren on the ambulance, as well as providing smog control on all vehicles.

The next meeting will be Dec. 18 instead of Dec. 25.

The commission took under advisement recommended new officers of the volunteer fire department. They are Gary Upton, chief; Ira Switzer, first assistant; William Sherfey, second assistant and Douglas Smith, third assistant. The commission must approve new officers.

New Store For Dogs Opening

Keener Doggie Klips, a new business specializing in the grooming of all breeds of dogs, will be opened Monday at 735 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Catherine Keener, owner of the establishment, formerly operated Canine Exclusives in San Francisco. She has recently moved to 47 Woodside Drive, San Anselmo.

Mrs. Keener said she is also featuring a collection of unusual accessories for pets.

Stanford Gets Record In Gifts —$38.5 Million

STANFORD —(AP)— Private gifts totaling 38.5 million dollars were received by Stanford University in the 1962-1963 fiscal year, the school reported yesterday.

The previous high was 23.5 million dollars in 1960-1961.

The report notes that the university's 1960-1965 goal —was the addition of 125 faculty members of professional rank, and this goal was met substantially in the first three years.

The university also planned faculty salary increases averaging 35 per cent over the five years, and notes that "average salaries under the 1963-1964 budget are 26 per cent above those of three years before."

Coed Will Attend Model U.N. Session

Joanne R. Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Jensen of 1204 Lynwood Drive, is one of 14 students at Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, Wash., chosen to represent the university at a model United Nations to be held next April 15 to 18, at Whitworth College, Spokane.

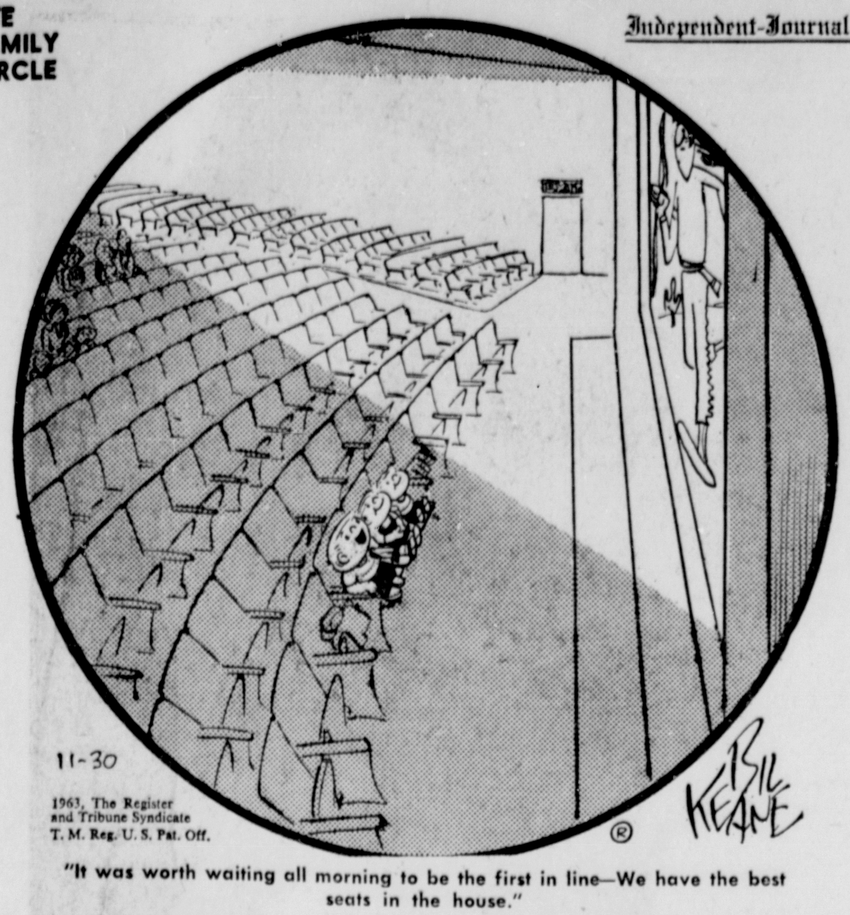
THE FAMILY CIRCLE



"It was worth waiting all morning to be the first in line—We have the best seats in the house."

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 30, the 334th day of 1963 with 31 to follow.

The moon is full. The evening stars are Jupiter, Saturn and Venus.

Those born today include former British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill in 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1782, preliminary peace articles ending the American-British Revoluionary War were signed in Paris.

In 1939, the Russo-Finnish war began after the Soviet Union failed to obtain territorial concessions from Finland.

In 1949, the Communists captured Chungking, China.

In 1954, the prime minister of the Union of South Africa, Daniel Malan, resigned and was succeeded by Johannes Strydom, an extreme nationalist.

A thought for the day—Spanish writer Cervantes said: "There is no sauce in the world like hunger."

CASTRO

The hand below was played by nine east-west teams last Friday night at the Golden Gate Bridge Club. Larry Dearmond of San Rafael and Mrs. Mitzi Perkins of San Anselmo are the co-directors. They run a fine tournament and always have tough major competition.

The only team to bid four hearts and make five was Mrs. Mildred Collins of Ross partnered with John Raymond of Marinwood.

This hand looks easy to bid and play on paper but remember only one team bid up to four and made it.

NORTH
(Mildred)
♠ Q
♥ 10 7 4 2
♦ A K 8 7 5 2
♣ Q 3

WEST
♥ 8
♦ Q J 6 2

EAST
♠ K 9 8 5
♥ K J 9 6
♦ 9 4
♣ 10 7 6

SOUTH
(John)
♠ 7 6 3 2
♥ A Q 5 3
♦ 10

The Bidding: North-South vulnerable:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	1♥	Pass
2♥	Pass	4♥	All Pass

I don't agree with Mildred's opening of one diamond but as she'll tell you with her southern drawl, "I awl came heare to bid and play and afterall, Mr. Raymond bid four hearts, not little ole me!"

JOHN IS AT his best when playing the hand. The opening lead was the diamond two. John took the diamond ace and king and discarded the spade two from his hand.

Next he played the club queen followed with the club three to the ace. On the club king John discarded the spade queen from dummy.

THE HAND is now set for cross ruffing and East with all his trumps is helpless. In the actual play East did not trump the third lead of diamonds but rather discarded a spade and this enabled John to make five.

Even if West led a heart the hand still is cold for four played the way John did. I believe a better bidding sequence is as follows:

North, pass; East, pass; South, 1 club; West, pass; North, 1 diamond; East, pass; South, 1 heart; West, pass; North, 3 hearts; East, pass; South, 4 hearts. This is the way the bidding went when Rear Adm. Red Williams (USN Ret.) of Kentfield played the hand but after North's jump to three hearts Red was fearful of his four losing spades so he passed.

This is a difficult hand to bid. Whenever the north hand mentions a diamond the south hand comes down in value due to the singleton and he has nine cards lower than a seven.

The main lesson to learn is that when you combine the luck of a southern belle, with the artistic cardboard manipulations of a Raymond, it will usually produce a fine score.

Less Is On Fire Than His House

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Firemen rushed to a house where a basement fire was reported and found a pair of plastic baby pants smouldering atop a floor furnace.

Firemen cooperated and withheld the name of the embarrassed householder who had reported his house on fire.

Ever read a better BOYS' STORY than this?

Even we grown-ups can learn a thing or two from I-J newspaperboys like these two brothers

Attention: Mr. Julian Leone,
Circulation Manager

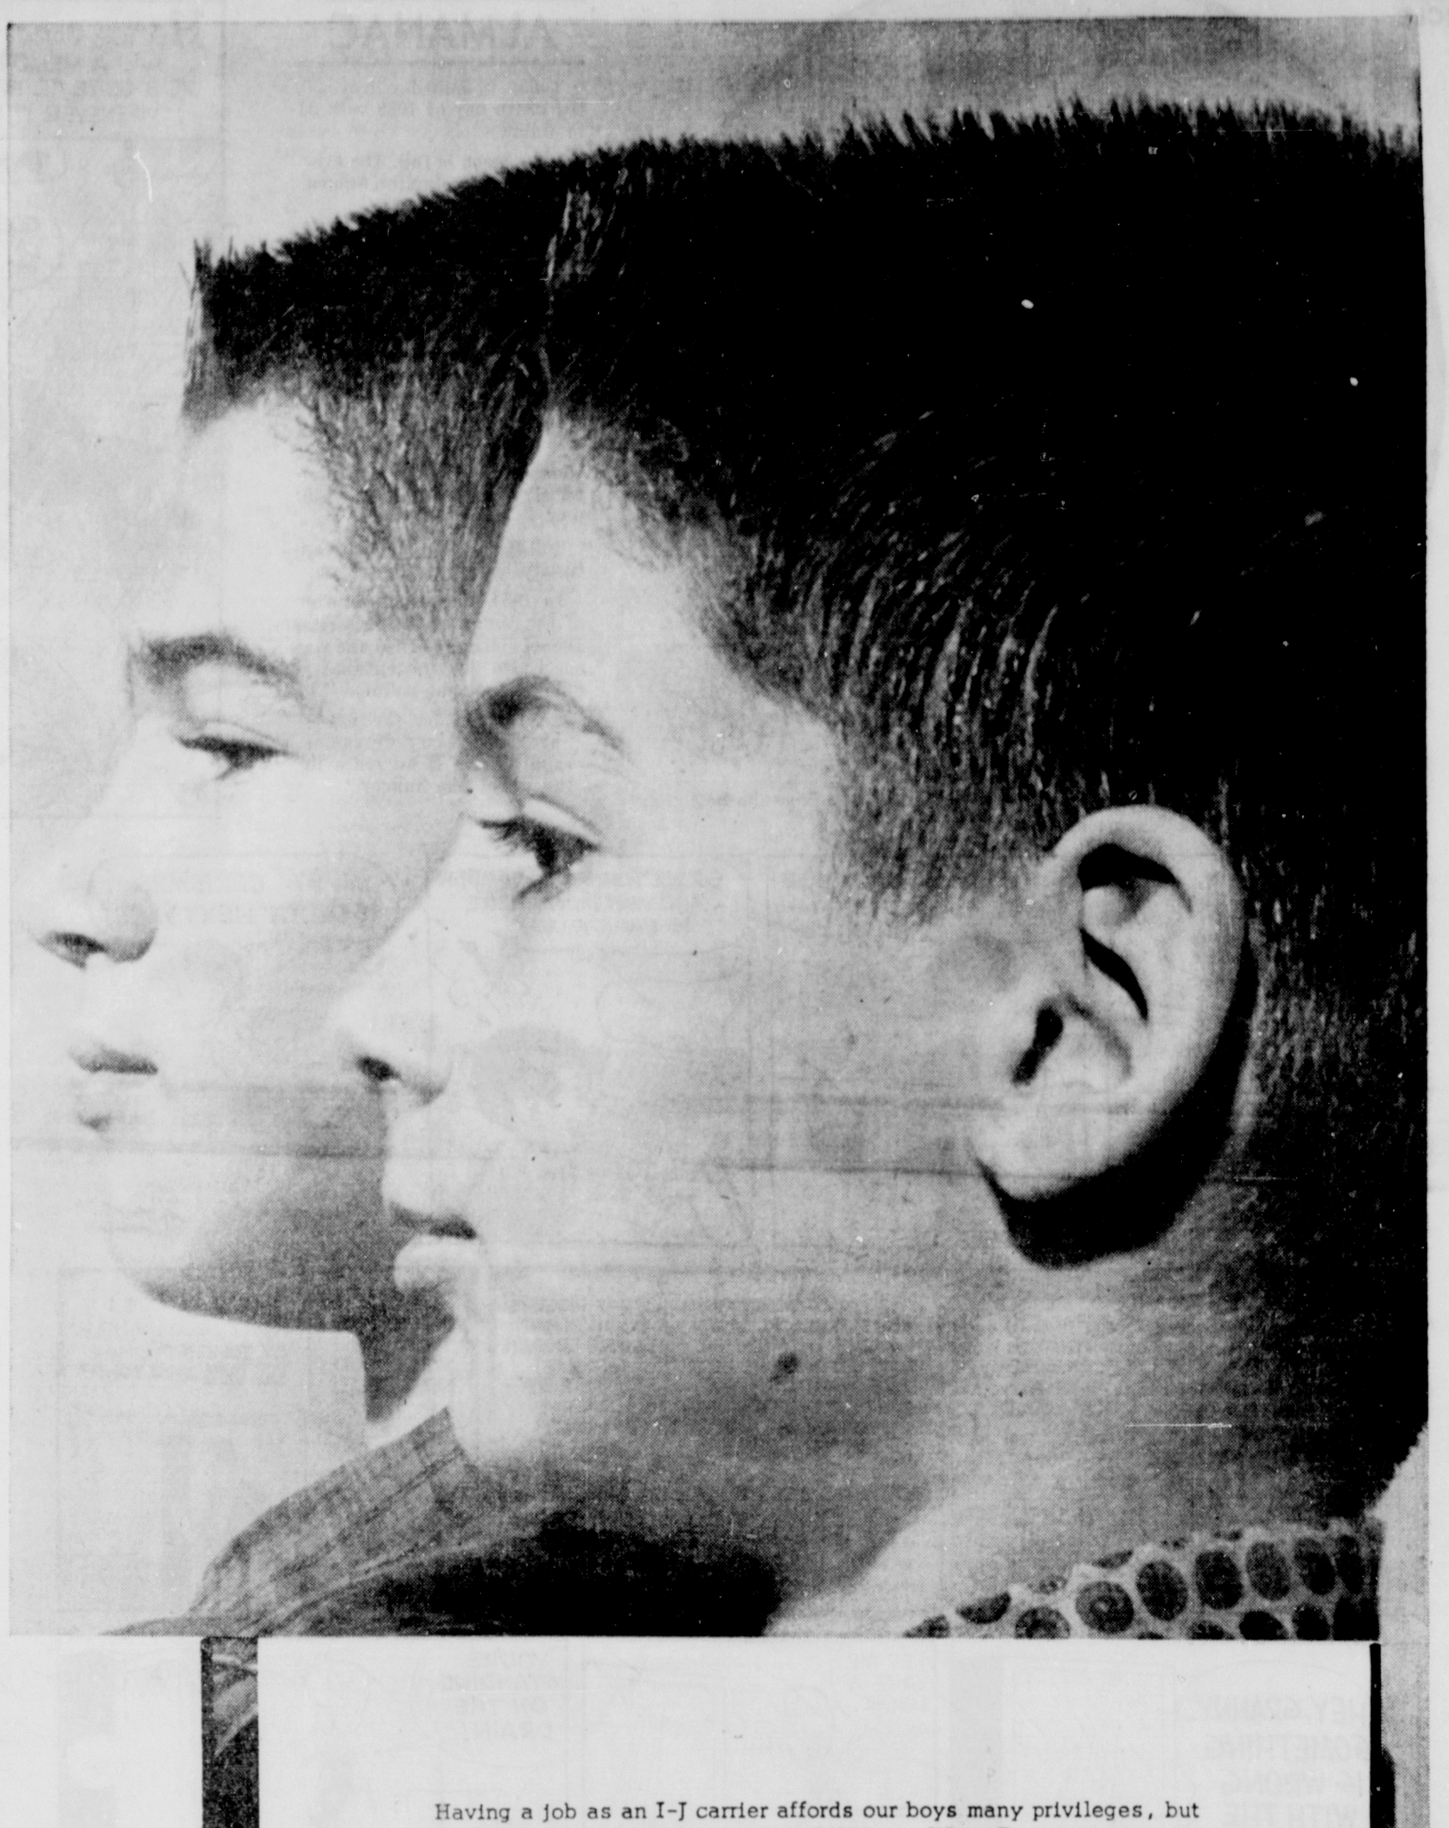
Gentlemen:

As the parents of two I-J carriers we thought we would write to you and let you know how successful our two young businessmen have been in managing their own businesses, and what a fine opportunity they have to learn to deal successfully with people outside the family circle of friends and relatives. They have learned in a manner they can understand, that courtesy and cheerfulness, prompt and conscientious service pay big dividends both in tips from satisfied customers and in bonus tickets to baseball games for perfect service. Their cash earnings have allowed them to enjoy much they would not otherwise have had.

Our oldest carrier Tom opened a bank account with his first month's earnings. After saving for several months he purchased a new Schwinn racing bike. At school he was assigned a year written report and display. He chose automobiles as his subject and with part of his earnings bought and built a dozen model cars for his display. He also received the "Big T" model as a gift from the I-J for extra subscriptions on a special contest. This Big T is a prized part of his ever growing collection.

This spring the sleeves of his school jacket began to show the effects of several months' growth and came inches above Tom's wrists. He said, "It's O.K. Mom, I've got enough money to buy myself a new jacket." And this he did and wore, with pride, a coat he had purchased with his own money.

Our carriers' gang decided to join a larger group and became members of the Boy Scouts. Again with his earnings Tom bought his own uniform, pack and pack frame, axe and canteen, mess kit and first aid kit, compass and pocket knife--all of the equipment that is wonderful for every boy to have, yet which otherwise can put something of a strain on the family budget. He paid for a week at summer camp and spent seven days at Marin Sierra Boy Scout camp having a grand time.



Having a job as an I-J carrier affords our boys many privileges, but with the privileges also comes responsibilities. When Tom goes on a week end camping trip with the Scouts he must arrange for and train a substitute to deliver his papers. During the summer if it is extremely hot and the boys would rather stay in swimming they know their customers will be waiting for their papers, and so much self-discipline is necessary and this does not come easy to lively boys. In the winter if it is icy cold or raining they must still deliver the paper. Since school work, of course, comes first before anything, they have learned to make better use of their time.

Our youngest boy Don has had his route now for almost six months. He is the happy owner of his very own transistor radio which he purchased with his own money -- a personal possession he has wanted for many months. He, too, is the proud owner of a premium earned by new subscriptions, a beautiful model of a gas powered airplane, the "Spitfire." He has bought several models with his earnings and has a fine collection of trucks. Don's pet dog, a shaggy mut named Shep, often benefits from his young master's job, mostly in the form of Doggie Candies or a new comb to brush his long coat with. Don is mostly a thrifty businessman now for his needs or wants are not yet very large, but he has an ever-growing savings account and his money will be there for him when he decides to use it.

Our young men are very much aware that the money they earn is theirs to spend or to save as they see fit, yet they gave us something which required much work and thoughtfulness. "Want to go to the Ice Follies?" they asked. "We can earn the tickets with new subscriptions." And so it was that our boys escorted Mom and Dad, via a chartered bus, to San Francisco to the Ice Follies and a truly wonderful and memorable evening. An outing our sons gave us.

The boys have some mighty plans for next summer. They are currently saving the price of two airplane tickets to Colorado. They plan to visit their aunt and uncle , and to see something of the sights in Colorado Springs. I do not know if they can save this rather large amount, but if we may judge from past experience, if they say they can do it, they can. We believe these two highly successful young men can do anything they are willing to work for, and all the experiences in living they are having as I-J carriers will stand them in good stead when they are grown men.

Very truly yours,

Mrs. J. P. Micheletti

IMAGINATIVE AND SKILLFUL wrapping of your Christmas gifts can add much to their appeal. Some tips: Choose a wrapping paper with a design opaque enough to completely cover any printing on the surface of the box; cut your gift paper to allow two inches of overlap around the box; make sure the edges to be folded at each end are slightly more than one-half the depth of the package, and secure each step of the wrapping operation with glue, rubber cement or seals, and the paper will always remain in place.

Let's Make Certain Our Parcels Reach Their Destinations Safely

Sending gifts through the mail this Christmas?

First of all, be sure to protect the items you are sending by wrapping them in heavy corrugated cardboard or in a strong cardboard box. Pack the contents of the package tightly; the post office can refuse to accept any package if its contents shift around.

When mailing Christmas cards, be sure to use the correct postage. A Christmas card deserves first class postage, in a sealed envelope with a five-cent stamp. Be sure to put your return address on the envelope, in case the person concerned has moved, or in case you have addressed the card incorrectly.

Protect any fancy wrappings, bow and frills with corrugated cardboard or a swash of tissue paper.

Use strong, plain wrapping paper that is new, tying large or heavy packages with enough twine to encircle the package both ways at least twice. Be sure to use strong twine.

Packages going to foreign countries must be sealed. Domestic mail packages may be sealed, provided they carry the label, "May be opened for postal inspection."

Use two printed mailing labels—one on each side of the package. Print the name and complete address of the person your package is going to, plus your own name and address.

Print carefully and clearly so that those busy people in the post office can read it easily . . . and send it speedily on its way to that friend or loved one.

SOME HELP FOR SHOPPER

To assist the busy Christmas shopper, the "Gift Guide" will be a regular feature of the weekly Independent-Journal Marin Magazine through the holiday season.

In it, readers will find advertisements containing special Christmas gift ideas, plus helpful articles on the selection and preparation of presents and the decorating of the home for the holidays.

Family Gifts Rank High In Popularity

Some of the nicest gifts under anyone's Christmas tree are those "From our house to your house."

Silver ranks high as a gift that can be enjoyed by the whole family. Silver ash trays, nut and condiment dishes, candlesticks, cigarette holders, lighters and vases, all add a touch of beauty to any home that will be a good wish all year around. Silver trays, in all sizes and shapes, are among the most usable gift ideas on anyone's list.

Clocks are another special family gift idea on anyone's list, and again the range is big. Small, elegant resk clocks big.

They Stay Puppies At Heart

Little Silky Terriers Give Lift To Owners' Spirits

By DON KEOWN

Mrs. Peggy Smith had never owned a dog in her life.

Then, back in 1950, on the Peninsula, she chanced to see one of the few Silky Terriers then in this country. And immediately, she was determined that she, too, must have one of the cute little Australian dogs.

Fortunately for her, husband Merle E. Smith was a Pan-American co-pilot, flying to and from Australia.

But even in their native Australia, the Silkies proved so scarce and difficult to acquire that it was not until the following September that Brenhill Splinters arrived at San Francisco International Airport where she was greeted by the Smiths.

HER MATE, Champion Wexford Pogo, is 11, still spry and in the best of health.

Pogo and Splinters have produced more champion Silkies than any other dogs of their breed. Pogo has sired seven champs for a record.

He was imported from Australia when Mrs. Smith decided to breed Splinters for a litter of puppies, and then discovered there was no available male silkie in the area.

Of the two dozen puppies which Splinters and Pogo have produced, the Smiths have kept one. She is Redway Splinters, known around the home as Buttons. And at 5 she has, like her famous father, won her championship.

Circumstances prevented the mother, Splinters, from joining the family championship roster. It was not until May of 1959 that there were enough Silky Terriers in this country for the American Kennel Club to register the breed and accept the little dogs in its shows. But at about the time the breed was recognized, Splinters had to be spayed, thus making her ineligible for the show ring.

She can, however, claim more champion offspring than any other female silky in the country.

AT FIRST, Mrs. Smith says, she and her husband had difficulty finding new owners for Pogo's and Splinters' puppies.

Then, in 1954, "This Week" magazine used a cover photo of Pogo by well-known dog photographer Walter Chandoha, and carried an article on the silkies. Reaction was immediate. Letters began pouring in to the Smiths. Other publications began running pictures and stories.

At the time the "This Week" photo and story appeared, there were only some 30 silkies in this entire country. But within the next year, another 150 were imported from Australia.

Right now four puppies share the Eichler home in Lucas Valley with the Smiths, Pogo, Splinters and Buttons. They will, however, soon be going on to new homes—and, perhaps, on to future championships.

Mrs. Smith says that, in addition to the thrill that comes from show ring successes, the little dogs provide her with valuable companionship when her husband, still flying for Pan-Am, is away from home. The Smiths have no children.

SHE IS secretary of the Silky Terrier Club of America, which has some 300 members, and has held that office since 1955. In addition, she served as the club's president from 1955 through 1960.

She was the first American Kennel Club licensed specialist judge for silkies in this country, and is now one of but two judges in the U.S.

She is also qualified to judge Australian Terriers, very similar to the silkies but larger and with short, harsh coats, and her judging activities once took her to Australia in that capacity. Three times she has gone to that continent to attend dog shows.

But now, she says, America is breeding more of its own silkies than it is importing from Australia. And most of the imported dogs are now brought in strictly as pets rather than as show dogs.

Even now, there are but 1,800 silkies registered with the American Kennel Club, a very small number when compared with most other breeds. (There were 123,000 poodles alone registered in the U.S. in 1962.) But of the silky total, Mrs. Smith estimates that three-quarters are to be found in California. As a result, the Smith dogs are encountering increasing competition in the dog shows in which they are entered.

Mrs. Smith says, the first book ever published on the subject. And the author, Betty Young of Little Rock, Ark., is a personal friend who owns four of Pogo's descendants.

TFH Publications is the publisher.

The silky breed originated in Australia around the turn of the century, derived from the Australian Terrier and the Yorkshire Terrier. A standard for the Silky Terrier was first drafted in 1906, and the first Australian club of fanciers of the breed was formed two years later.

THE BREED was first known as the Sydney Silky Terrier, later changed to Australian Silky Terrier. When official recognition was accorded the little dogs in the U.S. in 1959, it was simply as the Silky Terrier.

From their Australian Terrier forebears, the Silky Terrier has inherited sturdiness and rugged good health. And from the diminutive Yorkshire Terrier comes the fine silky coat.

The blue and tan coloring can be traced to both ancestors. And the silky's size, nine to 10 inches at shoulder, eight to 10 pounds, is a happy medium between the two original breeds.

OTHER TRAITS: Loving to their masters, virtually nonshedding and odorless, easy-to-care-for since they require only frequent brushing with no expensive clipping or plucking.

The puppies are born black and tan, marked with the black and tan saddle pattern seen in many other breeds. The tan remains, but the black changes to blue at maturity. This blue extends from the base of the skull to the tip of the tail, and down the fore and hind legs to the pasterns and hocks.

Silkies have dark brown, expressive eyes, black noses, jet-black toenails and ears that are folded forward at birth and which are erect and pointed at maturity.

WHY OWN a Silky Terrier? Mrs. Smith can give you any number of reasons.

They are, of course, cute and appealing. They have a happy, affectionate disposition. They are small enough to make ideal house pets, and easily groomed. And there is the satisfaction of owning something "a little different."

And, says Mrs. Smith, while the silky does acquire good manners and attain physical maturity, he remains a puppy at heart throughout his life.

THE SILKY owner, then, never experiences that unhappy point where he suddenly discovers that he no longer owns the cute puppy which he originally acquired, and has, instead, a far-different acting and much larger pet.

Recreation For The Entire Family

By CORENA GREEN

The Tiburon Peninsula Club (nee The Southern Marin Recreation Center) is a shining example of what resulted from an idea conceived in the minds of two men while commuting by bus from Tiburon to San Francisco.

It was in March of 1948 when Howard Ellis, then of Belvedere, and Frank Smith, who still lives on Corinthian Island, discussed the lack of recreation facilities for families of the Tiburon Peninsula and Belvedere.

SMITH, certainly a man with vision, thought some sort of facility should be started while land was still reasonably priced.

Asked Ellis: "Why don't you start one?"

And that was the beginning of what is now a major recreation center for the residents of Belvedere and the entire Tiburon Peninsula. It boasts a fine pool (larger than Olympic-size), four tennis courts, a good - size meeting hall, a trophy room, a playground, snack and bar facilities and a membership of 500 families.

"But it wasn't easy," Smith says. And an amazing sequence of coincidences played a large part in the development of the club.

IN MARIN County, whenever three persons get together, they usually form a committee and elect a chairman and secretary. There were more than three, including Smith, Ellis, Louise Mirata, and Fred Mantegani and others, who assembled to organize the recreation club. Unfortunately, they didn't elect a secretary. So no official records are available to describe the proceedings.

Consequently, we must depend on Smith's memory for the ensuing account of the club's founding.

Sufficient acreage was a problem and the only suitable spot seemed to be a site known locally as the Frog Pond and an adjacent area extending up into the canyon used as a cow pasture.

BY A HAPPY chain of circumstances involving mutual friends, Smith was able to talk to the owner, the late William Judge of San Francisco. Generously he donated the entire acreage in the swamp without charge and gave the committee an option on the acreage where the buildings, courts and pool now stand for $3,250 or about $600 an acre.

As Smith describes it, "Virtually a gift."

Since then the value of this land has risen astronomically and Judge Field, named for the donor, is the busiest place in Tiburon during baseball season, for the Little League and the semi-pro Pelicans share the three diamonds.

Ellis, meanwhile, sold his home to Ernest W. Homan, who joined the committee and became, according to Smith, "a tower of strength." Homan Hall, the building's main meeting room with its attractive stone fireplace, is named in his memory.

WITH THE choice of "Marin Recreation Center," the committee had a location and a name—but not much more. Now officers were elected. They were: Smith, president; Col. Daniel Gould, first vice president; Homan, second vice president; Mantegani, treasurer, and Elva Paske, secretary.

"What we thought was a great idea had been launched. But while we had plenty of enthusiasm, our corporation had no money. Several of us subscribed $150 each, thereby becoming charter members, and we were on our way," Smith relates.

FIVE THOUSAND tickets were printed, Main Street was roped off for dancing and Dude Martin's band supplied the music.

Tickets were sold for $1 each and people came from all around the Bay to attend. One of the prizes, a washing machine, was won by a resident of Long Beach.

Smith remembers that inexperience in such matters led the founders to request a San Francisco firm to send over card tables, wheels of fortune and a dice table as additional fund raisers. Unfortunately, the firm also sent an exceedingly merry and capable crew to operate the games, and they went away with the main share of the profit.

"DURING THE height of the action," Smith reminisces, "we received word that somebody had complained to the sheriff and we were to be raided. We quickly covered the apparatus with sheets and, when the officers arrived, explained that the furniture was covered because painters would soon be redecorating Tiburoners Hall. The officers smiled, said they saw no evidence of gambling, and left. The operators, furnished at no charge by the San Francisco firm, and knowing a good thing when they saw it, immediately returned and shortly things were going great again—for the operators."

In spite of being on the short end of the cash register, enough money — about $3,400 — was raised so that the mortgage on the property could promptly be paid off.

"Now our corporation owned about 12 acres of land, much of it in swamp. Again we were without funds, but with greatly increased enthusiasm," Smith continues.

Smith then figured that if, by some miracle, the swamp could be filled in for baseball games, a profit could be realized by selling beer, hot dogs and soft drinks. He laughingly recalls his own naivete in thinking that with nothing but hills in the area, good fill would be easy to obtain.

Mantegani and Smith prevailed on Fred Bagshaw, then county supervisor from the district, to have the county road department lower the grade of Mar West Street and dump the soil into the swamp.

"WE DID NOT know, and nobody told us, that the main water line to the area over the crest of the hills to the north ran through that part of the swamp we were to have filled. The result was that with the weight of the fill and the bulldozers, the main water line broke. The immediate result was a bill from the Marin Municipal Water District for $5,000."

Without funds, the corporation was unable to pay the bill. Fortunately they were absolved of responsibility.

Meanwhile, the Northwestern Pacific Railroad had given a part of a cliff where the sewage treatment plant now stands to the Tiburon Sanitary District, provided the district would haul the earth to the railroad yard for fill.

"FOR MANY days Mantegani and I, with bleeding hearts, watched trucks hauling this precious earth past us to the yard. Frequently Fred would bribe a driver to dump the dirt on the site of the new ball field at the price of one case of beer per load, but this was soon stopped by the contractor."

Then came a happy coincidence when Smith discovered that he and an engineer on the job had served in the same branch of the army and, with the aid of a bottle of Scotch, the fill was dumped into the swamp.

Still fundless, the group started a membership drive. Also a fence was built to keep out the cows which had already chewed up a donated ginkgo tree.

Then came the first major physical improvement. What is now known as Homan Hall was built.

According to Mantegani,

A FOUNDER, Frank Smith, poses beside the signboard in front of the Tiburon Peninsula Club. It was Smith who, some 15 years ago, engaged in a conversation with fellow commuter Howard Ellis about the need for recreation facilities for families on the peninsula. From that chat came the idea for the club which today boasts a fine swimming pool, four tennis courts, a meeting hall, a trophy room, a playground, snack and bar facilities, and 500 membership families. There were, however, many trials and tribulations before today's status was achieved. Independent-Journal reporter Corena Green, with founder Smith's assistance, tells you about some of those struggles on these pages.

"WHY DID A SIMPLE SPOT STAIN MY SILK DRESS?"

It wasn't the substance of the spot that "stained" your silk dress. Actually, it wasn't stained at all. It merely appears that way.

The probability is that you rubbed the spot on your silk dress when removing the soil. Silks are especially fragile and if you rub a silk garment or even one which contains silk, the surface fibers break or stretch. This raises fibers that should be flat, causing a different light reflection which looks like a discoloration. Actually, the spot is gone, but the damage from rubbing cannot be repaired.

When silks or silk-combination garments are stained, blot the stain. Do not rub it. Then take it to your professional drycleaner for his expert care.

THIS IS WHAT THE Tiburon Peninsula Club, for years known as the Southern Marin Recreation Center, looks like today. The swimming pool is larger than Olympic-size. And the buildings and grounds provide recreation facilities for members of all ages. There are, however, plans for still more growth in the future, and a number of possible projects are under consideration by club officials.

The Club That Grew By Coincidence

his father, affectionately known as "Pop" Mantegani, with the assistance of volunteers, built the stone foundation, the stone fireplace and the original building. "Pop," furthermore, provided the necessary funds.

BORROWING AN idea from local yachtsmen who for many years had held a similar party, the "Nights in Venice" were revived. This time, learning by experience, the games of chance were operated by the members of the center and for several years they annually raised between $2,000 and $4,000.

Under a special insurance plan, subscriptions were solicited. The amount raised, $102,000, far surpassed the $75,000 goal and all seemed rosy.

A summons to Sacramento revealed that a law had been broken and the members were faced with prosecution and perhaps jail.

THEN OCCURRED still another happy coincidence. Smith discovered that a fraternity brother of one of his good friends had succeeded to the office of state corporation commissioner. Happily the matter was straightened out, and so popular is the pool now that lifeguards have to decree 15 minutes of every hour as adult swim time to give them a chance in the water.

Four tennis courts have been installed beyond the pool. A children's playground is adjacent to a wading pool. Tiny tots are coralled in a generous playpen which sports a dazzling orange umbrella. Bleachers provide sunning space. A ladies auxiliary plans monthly daytime affairs and a club social committee constantly thinks up intriguing themes for the regularly scheduled dinner-dances.

Perpetual tennis trophies have been established including one honoring the late Elmer E. Boyden, who contributed a great deal to the growth of the club.

THE CLUB enters the Junior Davis Cup and Junior Wightman Cup competitions.

Swimming meets are regularly scheduled during the warm season to stimulate the children into becoming proficient swimmers. A special trophy honors Louise Mirata who has promoted swimming at the club for many years.

IN ADDITION the club runs a miniature extension division scheduling classes in such subjects as French, judo, bridge and trimnastics. In the past such diverse classes as knitting, Polynesian dancing and fencing have been offered.

But the growth has not stopped. According to Mrs. Thomas Stanton, member of the club's governing board, architectural studies have been authorized by the board looking toward development of the eight acres south of Mar West in the deed of gift from William Judge as a recreation area to be known overall as "Judge Field."

Long range planning envisions an appropriate memorial area dedicated to Judge, plus additional tennis courts, one or more new parking areas and the reconstruction of the Little League fields for both major and minor teams.

MRS. JUDGE is also interested in helping the program because her late husband loved children so much and enjoyed their baseball games.

Mrs. Stanton says the board has discussed another pool of uniform depth for races and training, additional bathhouses, a field and sports building, a larger club house, a water play area featuring a sprinkler pad for the small fry; outdoor dining terrace, handball court, archery range, and golf driving range and putting course.

An ice skating rink has even been mentioned.

NONE OF these are definite at the moment, Mrs. Stanton explains. "It all depends on what the club members ask for."

To the 500 families who belong it offers a wealth of diversified activities. Its meteoric rise has been the result of many hours contributed by many volunteers including those previously mentioned and Mason Wells, Mrs. MacBoyle Lewis and Mrs. Willard Saville.

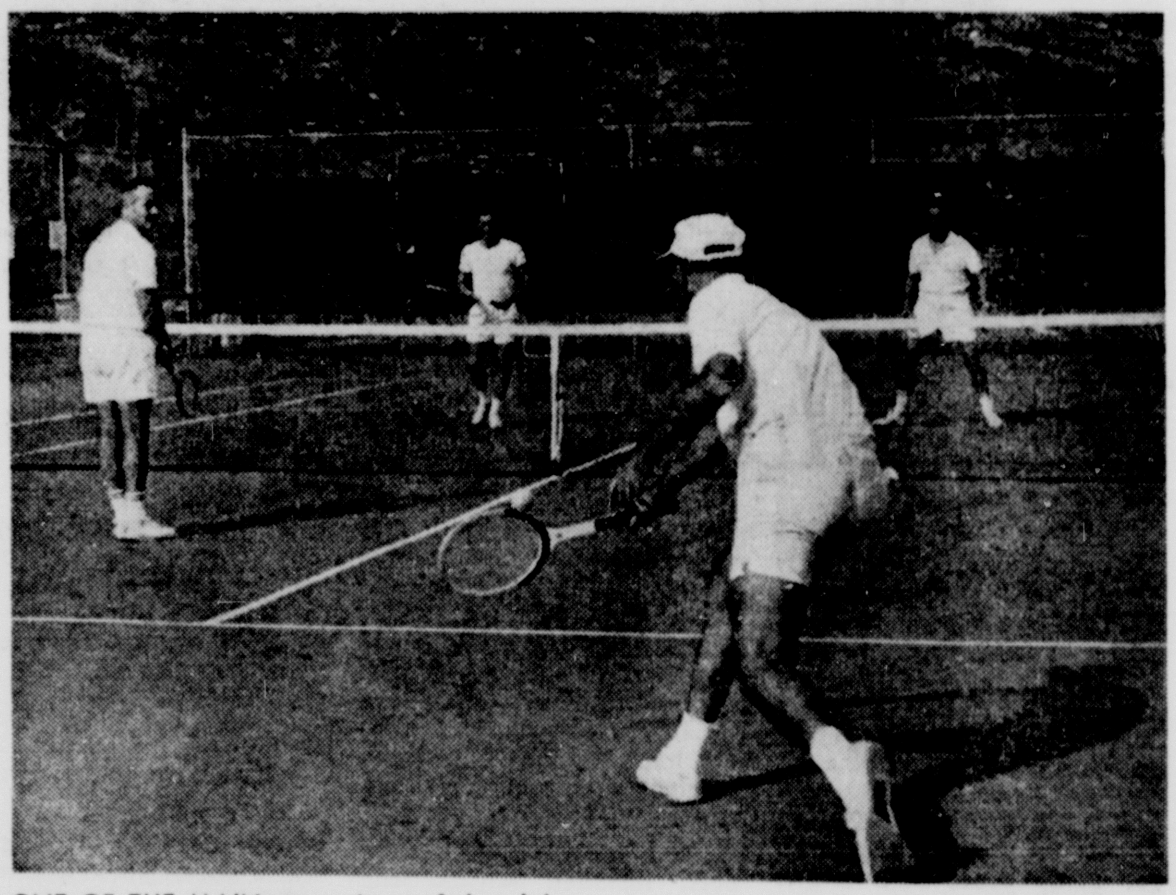
SO POPULAR IS swimming with the youngsters at the Tiburon Peninsula Club that lifeguards have decreed 15 minutes of every hour as "adult swim time" so that the seniors can use the pool. A subscription plan which raised more than enough money for the pool was held illegal, but even this obstacle was overcome.



ONE OF THE MAIN attractions of the club are the four busy tennis courts. Many tournaments are scheduled and the younger members participate in both Junior Wightman and Junior Davis Cup competition. An energetic tennis committee is constantly planning events for the many net enthusiasts.

THIS PLACE TO twirl around on a merry-go-round or perhaps just sit and dream is for the exclusive use of the tiny tots. Lots of equipment is provided on the Ellen Smith Memorial Playground. Facilities for even tinier tots have been built near the pool, so the adults can swim nearby while watching their offspring.

Stereo Hi-Fi

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

With Thanksgiving just behind us, our thoughts turn to the Christmas Holiday Season. The season of gift giving. If you are like me, you find that every year it gets more and more difficult to find useful gifts to give. Not that there aren't many nice things, but what would he or she like, do they already have one, etc.?

For the stereo hi-fi minded, there are many items that you can choose from. For the person who uses the stereo record player a great deal, you can choose a more precise type record changer, or a new modern stereo cartridge with a diamond needle, or even a stereo LP recording. For the person with a component home music system, you can choose a new stereo FM Tuner, or a stereo amplifier, or a new speaker system. For the family with a tape recorder, you can choose from many pre-recorded tapes, or blank recording tape, or a tape splicer, or a new microphone, or a microphone stand, or some extension speakers.

For the professional man, the doctor, the lawyer, the engineer, the architect, you can choose a transistorized portable type tape recorder to use in his work and at home. For the teenager, you can choose a monaural tape recorder for language practice, for music lessons, for speech correction, for parties, and for fun type music listening.

For the entire family, treat yourself to a gift that can be enjoyed every day of the year. Choose a stereo FM and record player home music system. A quality component type music system built into a cabinet to fit your home can be a lasting prestige item. It can provide the family with stereo FM music throughout the day, and with your favorite stereo records whenever you desire. Your stereo hi-fi music system can be a family building block. You can begin your system with a few basic components this Christmas, and keep adding to it on other special occasions. You can start with an FM multiplex stereo tuner-amplifier and one speaker system. Later you can add another speaker system, then a stereo record player, then a tape recorder, and lastly, you can garnish your system up in a gorgeous furniture piece.

If you already have a stereo home music system, then choose a stereo tape recorder. Use it to record your favorite stereo FM broadcasts, the children growing up, the parties, the vacations, and of course, use it to play your favorite stereo music. Make this a musical Christmas that will continue to give enjoyment.

Teen-Age Bridge Masters

Greenbrae Brothers Startle The Experts In Big Tourney

By CAROLYN COCHRANE
Redwood High School

Want to pit your bridge "savvy" against two near-winners in the largest bridge tournament in the world?

Then take on Bill and Dave Crossley of Greenbrae, ages 16 and 15.

The two teen-agers, a junior and a sophomore at Redwood High School, astounded 1,984 rival participants with their fantastic play in a one-day charity event at Los Angeles that was, in turn, part of a 10-day summer national competition. The pair entered as darkhorses and finished just a whisker—a half point, to be exact—behind the winners in a strong field that included many of the famous bridge masters.

THE BROTHERS originally went to Los Angeles to play in a special teen-age contest, and to work as "caddies" in the larger tournament. Bridge caddies, who help in scoring and in picking up the score sheets, earn good pay for their efforts.

The decision to play in the large charity tournament was made after the teen contest was canceled because of a sparsity of entries.

The boys then proceeded to come within inches of scoring an astounding upset in the largest single - session bridge championship ever played.

MASTER POINTS in bridge are hard to come by, as Bill and Dave and all other devotees of the card game well know. A first master point establishes the player as a junior master, and from there the climb begins.

Bill and Dave entered the big Los Angeles event with only a few scant points to their credit.

"We met all the big shots down there," Dave comments, "and it's true that if you don't play big, you don't get the points."

The boys competed as a team against other pairs and accumulated 11 red points in Los Angeles as against an average of eight points.

"IT WASN'T as difficult as we thought it would be," says Bill, "or else we are improving rapidly."

They concentrated upon a simple, sound game, and their most important factor was restrained bidding.

"The thing we really learned there was how important it is to pass," Bill explains.

The prime purpose of all big tournaments is to afford the crack players an opportunity to acquire points. And there the brothers did themselves proud. Their successes in the charity tournament jumped the young players to the status of national masters with 50 master points.

IN ALL THEIR tournament appearances to date, they have placed first, second or third.

A big factor in the brothers' ability and interest in bridge is their mother, Mrs. Lura Crossley, who teaches bridge classes, arranges tournaments and is a life master at the game. So are the boys' father and their grandfather.

IT WAS NATURAL, then, that Bill and Dave should begin playing the game at an early age.

And, says Mrs. Crossley, it was soon apparent that they had a natural flair and ability for bridge playing.

One of their strongest assets, their mother believes, is their temperament. "They are relaxed and don't get upset when things go badly or when they lose," she explains. "I think their participation in competitive sports has helped to make them good sportsmen at the bridge table as well."

The brothers do not, by any means, confine their activities to bridge playing. Both are excellent at chess, another "mental" game. But they are also participants in school sports at Redwood High School. Both are preparing for careers somewhere in the science field. And they have many other hobbies and interests.

MRS. CROSSLEY says they seldom find the time any more to sit down for a family game of bridge. But the sons frequently assist her in arranging and conducting her tournaments.

Apparently the Crossleys are thoroughly convinced that the children's place is "around the bridge table." For 8-year-old Janet and 12-year-old Bob are also learning the intricacies of the game.

So with a club, diamond, heart and spade as their banner, a new Crossley twosome, or even a foursome, may some day soon earn that first half point and begin the climb into the bridge limelight.

The Mystery Of The Muted Music

Maybe it's music that makes the world go 'round, but Tamalpais Union High School District music teachers and some of their colleagues are doing some soul searching.

ARE STUDENTS shunted away from music courses because of other academic pressures or an emphasis placed on other electives?

By parents, by counselors, by friends?

They ask these and other questions about the role of music in the high school program.

This quest for answers has led to the studying of source material, comparative data, and other written information, and to meetings with people like Asst. Supt. Robert D. Torrey, Alameda State College music specialist Dr. Karl Ernst, and San Francisco State curriculum expert Dr. Raymond Simpson.

Music teachers readily admit that sheer numbers don't insure quality construction. But they also know that when enrollment gets too low, useful courses may be in danger of elimination. This is sheer economics.

EACH OF THE district's three schools have two music teachers.

Why Not Larger Classes?

At Tam, Mrs. Mabel W. Pittenger teaches three classes in instrumental music (orchestra) and supervises two study halls; Robert P. Greenwood has two vocal and three instrumental (band) classes.

At Drake, J. Perry Smith has four classes of instrumental music and supervises a study hall; Scott G. Merrick teaches two classes in choral music and one in history, and has two study halls assigned to him.

Tam Teachers Hope To Attract More Students To Their Classes

sidering the numerous requirements, legal and pressure, put on high school students these days. But the music teachers don't think it jibes with their expectations and their ideas of music's importance in a comprehensive education.

ENROLLMENT, of course, doesn't tell the whole story of music activity. For each hour spent in the classroom, music students spend many more in rehearsal for and performance at band, orchestra, choir, and combination events such as the school musicals, many of which are community sell-outs.

Bob Greenwood at Tam, for example, has for many years had spectacular success with productions which combine musical, dramatic, artistic and craft talents. Drake and Redwood, in recent years, have followed suit.

The wide and varied student participation in such events has educational values, some believe, above and beyond music instruction.

THOUGH OF A less spectacular nature, a like case can be made for concerts, band performances, etc.

But despite such widespread enthusiasm by school and community, music teachers continue to watch their enrollments diminish.

A MUSIC CLUB at Tamalpais High School helps stimulate interest in the school's music program. These three members, flutists all, are, left to right, Irene Evans, Kitty Buel and Patty Rohl. The club sponsors a varied program of student-initiated and carried out activities.

YOU ARE LOOKING AT Sir Francis Drake High School students as they run through some routine work in an instrumental music class taught by Perry Smith. The saxophone section is in the foreground, the flutists in the background.

VIOLINIST Susan Zuffinetti studies music at Tamalpais High School under Mabel Pittenger. What concerns Tam District music teachers is that there are not more like her participating in their programs.

THE UPRAISED ARM belongs to Scott Merrick, Drake High School vocal music teacher, as he leads a classroom session at the San Anselmo school. His young charges, however, seem to have a case of the giggles, brought on by the photographer's presence. Tamalpais Union High School District music teachers are conducting studies which they hope will result in larger future enrollments in their classes. At present, only a small percentage of the students take part. They are a talented lot. But the teachers would like to see more of them.

THE BOOK PAGES

Even The Virtuoso Needs A New Tune

By DON KEOWN

AS I REMEMBER THEM by Eddie Cantor, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 144 pages, $3.95.

"The Hat on the Bed" contains 24 new John O'Hara short stories that are markedly similar in tone, in technique and in every other respect to his earlier collection, "The Cape Cod Lighter."

We enjoyed the "Lighter" immensely and praised it in our review.

Somewhat to our own surprise, we enjoyed "The Hat" a great deal less.

It is not that the writing in the new book is inferior. It is, instead, simply a matter of going to the well too often. Even perfection pales and becomes monotonous when cut to the same pattern and repeated scores of times.

The O'Hara short stories, once again, are characterized by an inconclusive quality that leaves the reader dangling. They are more observations — sometimes overheard conversations — than episodes or even incidents. Revealing they always are, for O'Hara is a master at having his characters bare their inner selves in a few brief sentences or reactions. But after story after story of this sameness, varying but seldom and but slightly, this reader began to long for just one emphatic conclusion with a character conquering or surrendering to his weaknesses.

O'Hara's fine talent for characterization is here, as are his acute powers of observation of the human race. His writing talent is unquestioned. But even the virtuoso must change the tune from time to time if his audience is not to tire of his performance.

AT THE OUTSET of his new book, "As I Remember Them," Eddie Cantor promises this will be no trip down Memory Lane. And then proceeds for the next 144 pages to conduct just such a tour.

The book is packed with his recollections of such pals and "show biz" personalities as Will Rogers, Al Jolson, Florenz Ziegfeld, Bert Williams, George M. Cohan, Groucho Marx, Jimmy Durante, Milton Berle, Judy Garland, Ted Lewis, et al.

About each of these and many others, Cantor has one or more anecdotes to relate. Unfortunately, many of these stories are old chestnuts that have already been repeated and re-repeated.

If anyone can get by with this kind of stuff, however, it is Cantor. The affection he holds for show business and his fellow performers is genuine, and so is the affection they return to him. What would be disastrous coming from some entertainers will be acceptable to many when coming from Cantor. And even the sentimentality which flows so freely seems less distasteful when emanating from Cantor's pen.

EDDIE CANTOR
A genuine affection

He's a sentimental guy, and has never pretended to be anything else.

Those who are not Cantor fans would find the book a disaster and should avoid it at all costs. The many who are admirers of the little comedian may be somewhat embarrassed that he hasn't come up with something better and fresher. But they will also accept this as the cherished recollections of a gentle and generous gentleman who is sincere if hardly inspired.

ISRAEL: YEARS OF CHALLENGE by David Ben-Gurion, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc., $5, 240 pages. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion describes the early days of Israel as a new country, outlining a series of tense political and military situations in which he played a decisive role.

The book unfortunately leaves much untold. Ben-Gurion rarely introduces the reader to any of the many persons and personalities he must have worked with and worked against in forging the new country.

Perhaps the book is written too close to history. Most of the contentions that revolved around Israel are still revolving today. Ben-Gurion evidently cannot afford to be candid on such contentions.

But the book has value as a political and diplomatic treatise. His writings and his thoughts collected here will be of value to historians. It should aid the writer of the future who does the biography of David Ben-Gurion.

That will probably be a much more fascinating book than the one the prime minister himself has offered here.

The author has skilfully intertwined the story of Sam Rayburn's life with a thumbnail chronicle of the major events of our time.

It couldn't have been otherwise because the man affectionately known as "Mr. Sam" was personally involved in the making of U.S. history for almost 50 years.

Allen presents a clear concise portrait of the man who served as speaker of the House longer than any other man and became a national TV personality wielding the gavel at Democratic conventions.

Although the book is the story of a Democrat, the author avoids the pitfalls of partisan politics, and comes up with an objective tale that any Republican could enjoy.

In light of recent events, the book is particularly revealing in the passages concerning Rayburn's efforts to have then-Senator Lyndon B. Johnson nominated for the presidency.

The book is one in a series of biographies entitled "Great Lives" which is especially valuable for the young reader.

The 63 grads, reporters, editors, teachers and television newsmen, tell of their "big stories," people they have met, their teachers and their problems.

As can be expected, the writing is skilled. But as in most collections, some segments are much more enlightening or more stimulating than others.

There are warm, moving reports of encounters with Robert Frost and Eleanor Roosevelt, a glimpse of the revolution in Hungary and a reporter's first revelation of a talk with President Roosevelt three months before Pearl Harbor.

People in the news field will find the collection informative, livelier than the run-of-the-mill trade book, but a little short on humor. The general reader might find there are too many "inside" trade articles.

DEAD WATER by Ngaio Marsh, Little, Brown and Co., 244 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

With the professional competence that comes from 30 years of mystery writing experience, Ngaio Marsh has produced a quite satisfactory "who-dun-it" in her latest "Dead Water."

An island off the English coast suddenly experiences a booming business from visitors when miracle cures are seemingly effected by the waters of its spring.

The new owner of the island, aging, headstrong but delightful Miss Emily, decides to put an end to the commercial exploitation of the spring, and promptly becomes the target of attempted murder. An old Marsh favorite, Superintendent Roderick Alleyn of Scotland Yard, is soon on the scene.

What lifts the book out of the ordinary is the the skilled manner in which Miss Marsh presents the local flavor of the island and its occupants. The puzzle and its solution are acceptable but not exceptionally imaginative.

CLOSE QUARTERS by Michael Gilbert, Walker and Co., 252 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Jean Lyttle.

Michael Gilbert, who is well known to mystery readers in England as well as this country, has written here a novel in the traditional detective style.

It is a murder problem placed in a closed, interesting setting, filled with clues to be found in poison-pen letters, crossword puzzles and so on, all of which baffle and fascinate the reader.

The setting is a Cathedral Close. The dean sends for his nephew, a Scotland Yard man, of course, and with him, the reader meets the members of the Cathedral and Chorister's School on the greens of a palace. There is a race to untangle clues as one brutal murder follows another.

NEW IN GARRARD'S "A Discovery Book" series is a biography of botanist Luther Burbank, written by Doris Faber. A second book in the same series, a biogrpahy of Kit Carson, has also just been published. Both pay special attention to the earlier years of their respective heroes.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Two Famous Americans Subjects Of Biographies

The fact that Northern California can claim the great botanist for one of its own should give our children a special interest in "Luther Burbank" by Doris Faber (Garrard, $2.50). Mrs. Faber, a former New York Times reporter, tells the Burbank story in simple yet appealing language aimed at the third grade level, give or take a grade. Eleanor Mill provides pleasing illustrations in which the colors, appropriately enough, are green and yellow. It is part of Garrard's "Discovery Book" series, and should interest boys and girls in a great American well worth their respect and emulation.

Also a "Discovery Book" by Garrard and priced at $2.50 is "Kit Carson" with text by Nardi Reeder Campion and illustrations by Shannon Stirnweis. Again the reading level is third grade. Mrs. Campion tells the story of the scout and Indian fighter in a lively manner, but without giving way to exaggeration. Small boys should enjoy the action and adventure and profit from a more realistic picture of the Old West, than is ordinarily presented to them by television and the movies.

Newest title in the excellent Horizon Caravel Book series for young history fans is "Captain Cook and the South Pacific" by Oliver Warner and the editors of Horizon (American Heritage, $3.95). Cook's exploits as explorer and navigator are told in the manner of the professional historian, yet without the pedantic flavor that might discourage young readers. The pages are enlivened by 140 illustrations, 45 of which are in color, and including paintings and drawings by artists who accompanied Cook on his expeditions.

Judging from the large, simple and highly imaginative illustrations by Walter Lorraine in Ogden Nash's "The Adventures of Isabel" (Little, Brown, $2.75), the reader might suppose that this brief handbook on how to banish childhood bugaboos is directed at the very young—but take care in putting it into their hands. The well-adjusted 6-to-8-year-old will greet this with raucous cathartic joy, but the insecure child would not be able to face, even vicariously, such graphic illustrations of his greatest fears.

"Captain Serafina," written and illustrated by Laurent de Brunoff (World Publishing Co., $3), is another in a series of the adventures of Serafina, the giraffe, and her animal friends. There are colorful drawings and touches of humor that should please the reader in the 5-to-7 age bracket. The animals set out on a sea adventure that ends in a happy landing, thanks to a unique idea by Serafina—one that only a giraffe could carry through.

EAST HARBOR ESTATES

EAST VERSUS WEST

The inner court of East Harbor Estates is a genuine Japanese garden. It was created by the outstanding leader in Japanese landscaping, George Murata, in the centuries-old tradition of Sen-No-Rikiu and Foruba Oribe, the supreme artists of Old Japan. Here you may bask in warm sun or entertain friends in the charming modern Japanese "tea house"...truly your dreams of luxury are here at East Harbor Estates.

IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY

These "Condominium" homes are a community of 50 exciting 1, 2 and 3 bedroom residences in ten separate buildings grouped around a peaceful Japanese garden with its "tea house" and inviting swimming pool. You can buy an East Harbor Estate "condominium" home just as you would buy any home. But once you do make the purchase . . . you will shed many of the problems of the ordinary home owner, yet you retain the home owner's income tax saving advantages. Your home will be completely furnished with carpeting and drapes; top quality electrical appliances in the kitchens include a refrigerator and dishwasher; all of your landscaping has been done for you. The swimming pool is filled and heated. These would be additional expenses in ordinary homes. But they are all included in the base price of your East Harbor Estate "Condominium".

These "Condominium" Homes Start at Only $14,950

Modern "trade-up" Plan . . .

Use your present home as a down payment. Select the East Harbor Estate "Condominium" that is just right for you. List your property with us. Within 60-days (subject to normal real estate commission) your home will be sold . . . or we will buy it at a pre-arranged net price. Sell your old home and buy a new "Condominium" all in one transaction. You can move into East Harbor Estates immediately!

Excellent loans are available to East Harbor Estate buyers, the prime rate beginning at 5¾% interest for a term of 25 years. As is typical with all home financing, a lower rate follows a larger down payment. However, we can even arrange for secondary financing if needed. Ask our salesmen to help you work out a plan to fit your individual needs.

DIRECTIONS:

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, FM & Cultural Guide

J. C. BACH: Duet in F; J. S. BACH: Concerto in C; W. F. BACH: Concerto a Duoi Cembali Concertati; J. C. BACH: Duet in A—Rafael Puyana and Genoveva Galvez, harpsichordists / Clarion Concerts Orchestra with Newell Jenkins conducting—Mercury Stereo SR-90322:

All of these pieces are written for two harpsichordists, both performing on a single instrument in the first and last of the pieces, and on separate instruments in the middle two works. Each of the pieces explore every possibility of the idiom, at least in this period in music, and are performed with such accuracy and skill by Mr. Puyana and Miss Galvez as to rate a Grand Prix du Disque if such were awarded in this country. The program is very well chosen to illustrate the differing characteristics of the three members of the great Bach family, and also to illustrate the slight distinction between the two performers. Stereo is predictably a major factor in the appeal of this lp; in mono a great deal of the back-and-forth musical antics are lost completely. In line with previous Mercury harpsichord albums, the sound is startlingly close-up and realistic —as though one were seated at the actual keyboard beside the performers. Even on the harpsichord - four - hands pieces, the notes played by each performer can be clearly picked out both tonally and spatially — a truly amazing feat in recorded realism.

A number of recent classical albums have been employing an over-all title such as this one, usually taken from a name connected with only one of the several pieces on the lp. While this may be commercially of value, it is often confusing to the buyer. This re-release of four concerti from a multi-disc Biggs album on Columbia explains the derivation of the title and so cannot be criticized on that count. The concerti, by the way, are numbers 2, 5, 13 and 16. No. 13 is the one nicknamed The Cuckoo and the Nightingale because of the bird imitations heard in its second movement. The pipe organ on which Biggs performs is one designed and used by Handel himself. This is organ writing of the considerable more showy nature than Bach's. It is music of the concert hall whereas Bach's is music of the church. Certainly this is a definitive album in every way: music, performers, organ used in recording, and quality of stereo sound.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

CONTEMPLATION

Suppose He came to earth today
Just as He did before,
And wore the garb of modern man
He purchased in a store;
Suppose He was a carpenter
And worked with saw and plane,
And spoke of understanding,
Would we banish Him again?

Does it seem sacriligious now
To speak in such a way?
Does it destroy illusions
Man has carefully built of clay?

Suppose we watched Him carefully,
The blind He made to see,
And multitudes were duly fed
From bread and fishes three;
We listened as He said again
"The Father is within,"
And if He said "Go live in peace,"
What would we do with Him?

SAUSALITO — FRANCISCA McCLUGGAGE

IT'S LESS PAINFUL

Courtesy is common sense;
On the highway, be restrainful—
Let someone else ram through the fence;

When a train roars down the track—
That's no time for being dareful;
Wigwag signals mean "STAY BACK!"
It's less painful to be careful.

You may be a minute gainful;
CRASH! then you are limp and still—
To be careful is less painful.

When the doctor says "You'll live!"
(After he has been repairful),
To this thought attention give:
"It's less painful to be careful."

If, sometime, (as it did to me)
Fate brings about the unexplainful,
Don't miss the curve and hit a tree!
To be careful IS less painful!!

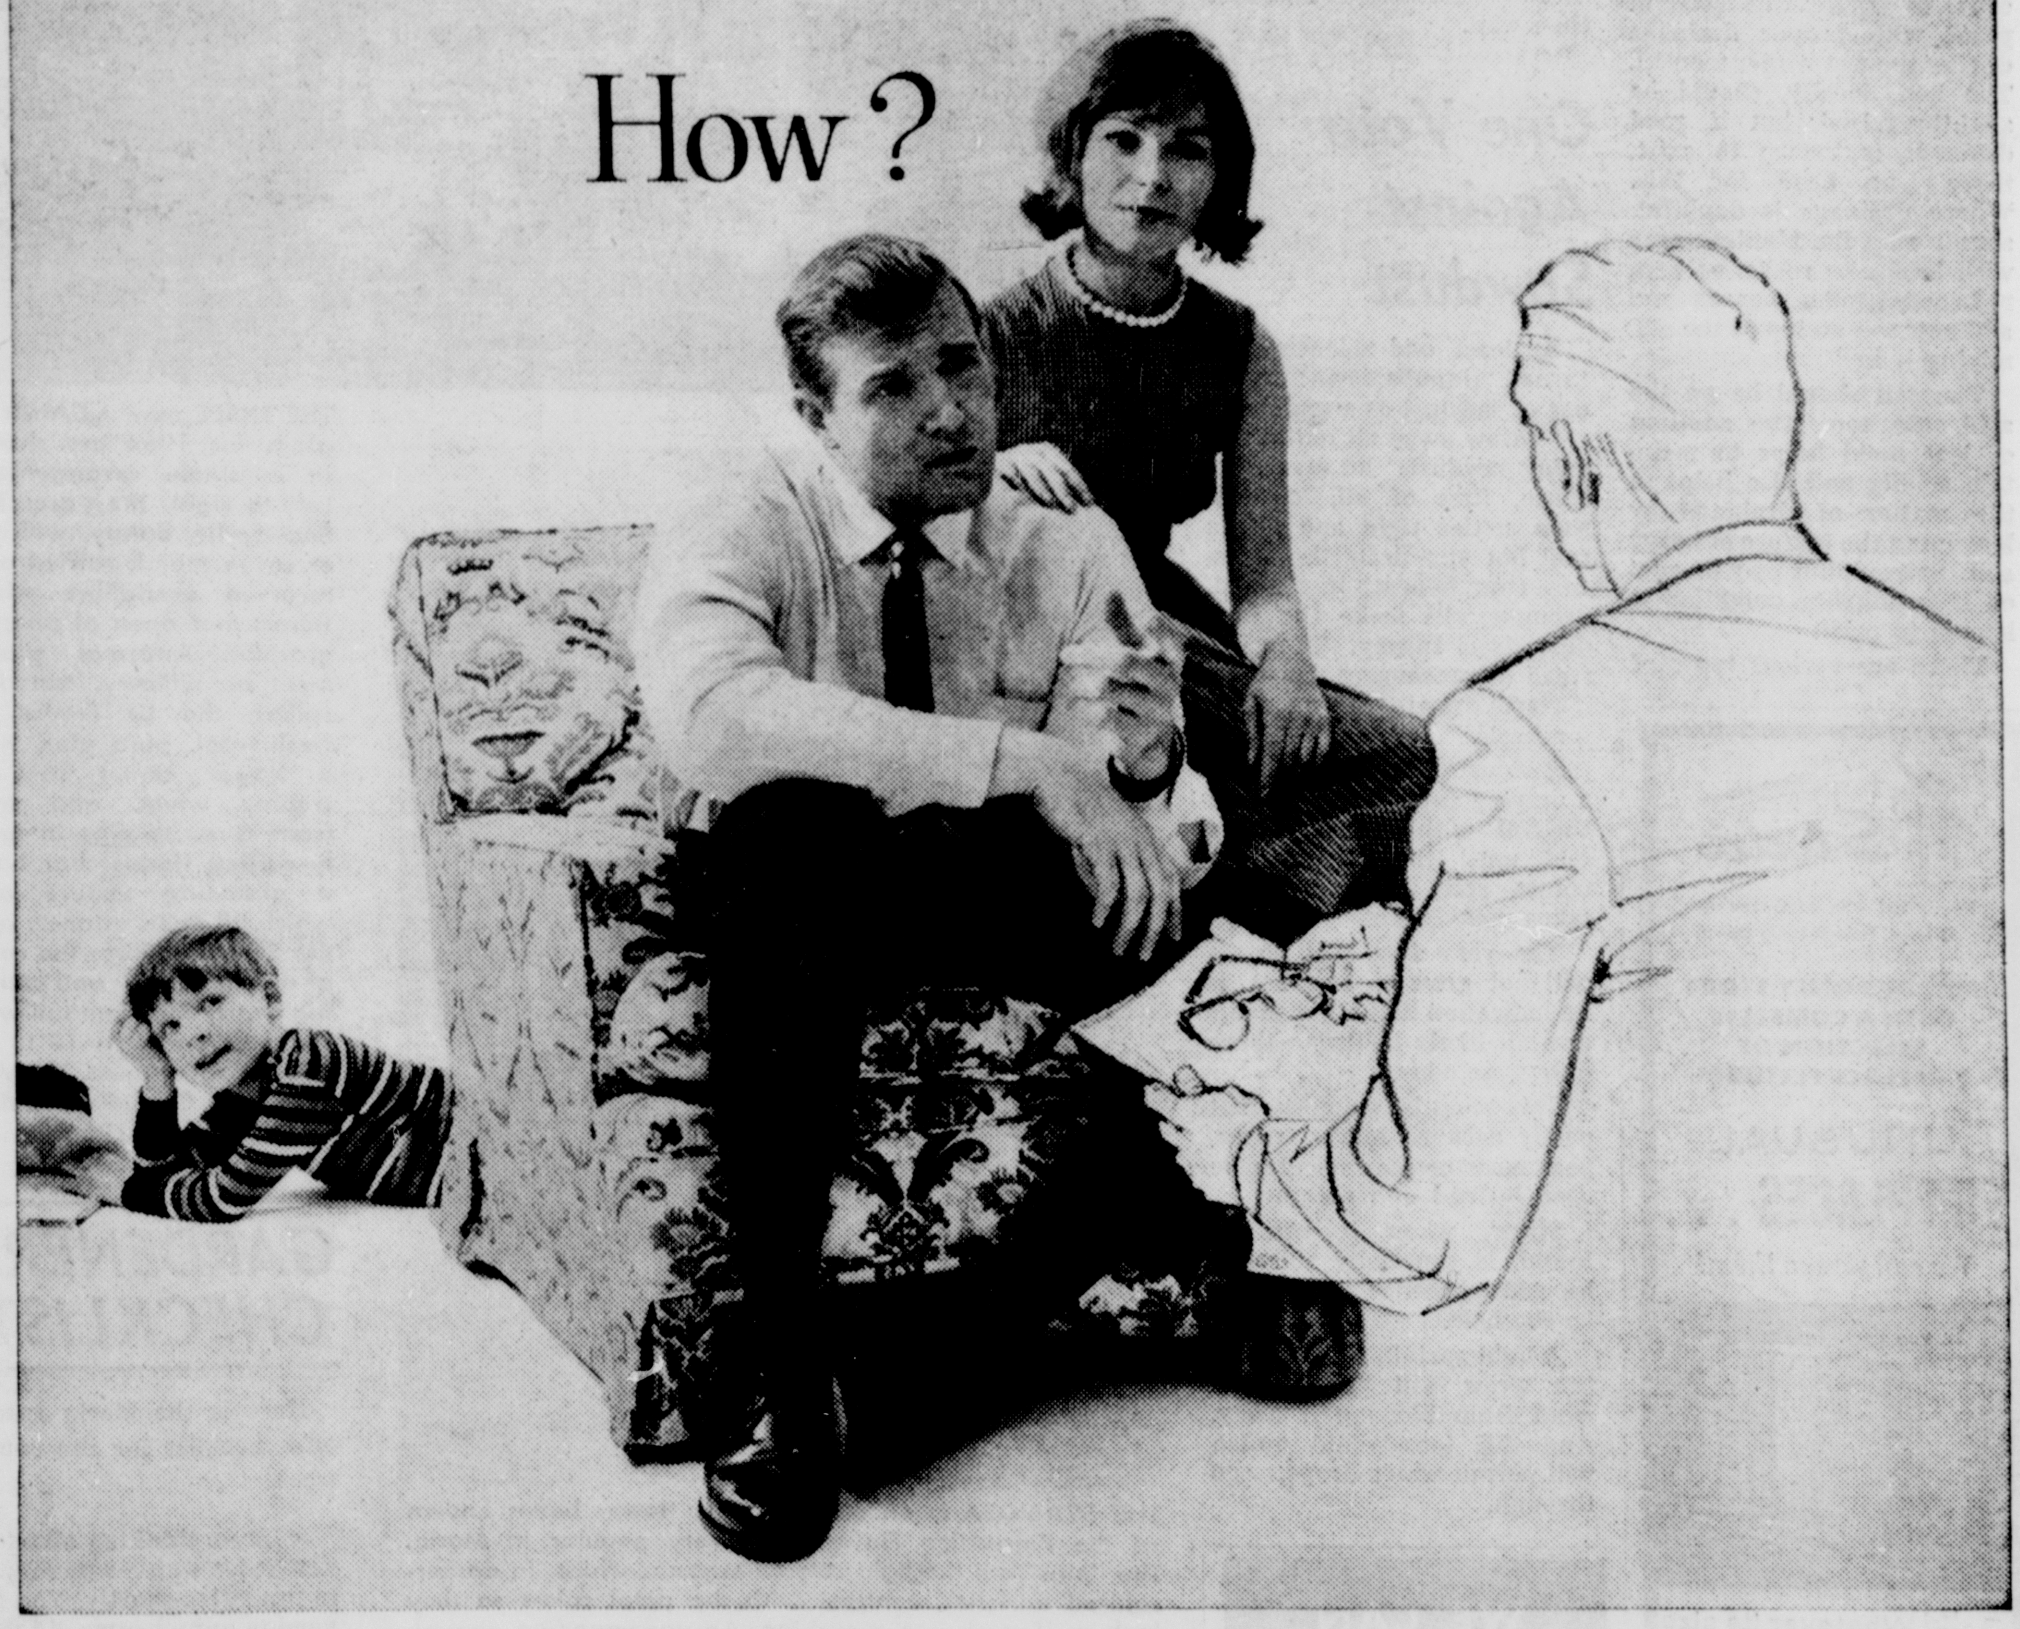
Guarantee money for college?

How?



With your life insurance...and the help your agent is trained to give you!

YOU: That's a pretty big promise. How's it possible?

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE AGENT: You simply use any policies that have cash values—as a way of putting money aside for your children's college education.

YOU: And then what?

AGENT: Well, as you know, these cash values in your policies increase, year by year, as you pay your premiums. When college days arrive you can use this money, if you need to, for tuition and other expenses.

YOU: But why do it with life insurance? There are lots of other ways I could save the money.

AGENT: Sure, if you're positive that you'll live to save it. With life insurance you know the full amount will be there—even if you're not.

YOU: I never thought of it that way. The money really is guaranteed, isn't it?

Cineraria Thrives In Shady Places

This favorite for early spring is at its best where shade predominates. And coincidentally, it is also at its best in our Northern California gardens.

Many an Easterner would envy our ability to grow the cineraria under garden conditions, for in the East, it is a favorite pot plant, sold by florists and grown under cover during winter and early spring. Here we can plant it out in fall, then sit back and wait for its bloom in late winter and early spring—bloom which never fails to come in abundance.

WE MUST take care, however, to insure this colorful plant with proper drainage during the wet winter months. The bed, ideally, should be slightly raised, but if good drainage is known to exist, there's no need for this. Where drainage is doubtful, simply ring the planting area with bricks or rocks, or with redwood header boards and add new soil on top of the old, mixing it in.

The soil should be on the acid side, too. The addition of leaf mold helps to maintain acidity and also helps in the matter of drainage by leavening the texture of heavy soil. Soil sulphur may be added if an alkaline condition is known to exist.

There are various types of cineraria available.

THE COMMON old form is the stellata strain, which grows taller and produces more, if smaller flowers, than the hybrid beauties offered in florist shops. These latter are probably the California Super Giants, which have been hard to improve on, though several seedmen have tried. They are squat plants, producing large flat heads of flowers in vivid blues and purples, mixed with white, as well as salmon or red shades. They will reseed themselves, but the resultant plants are never as satisfactory as the hybrid parents.

Plant them about 10 inches or a foot apart and keep them well watered if rains fail. Between now and next spring, there's little else to do other than wait.

One Vote Against Sawdust

At least one scientist has turned "thumbs down" on the use of sawdust as a mulch.

"Throw away all notions of using sawdust," he says, "because, first of all, sawdust soon settles tight and lets a real hot sun draw the moisture from beneath it. Second, drought will make the sawdust itself thirsty. Then, instead of preserving moisture, it starts drawing up moisture for itself."

Sawdust, he notes, also has a craving for the nitrogen in the soil—a thirst that will not end until the sawdust becomes soil itself—and this takes many years.

The very fact that weeds will not grow in sawdust, is an indication that other plants are not likely to thrive there either, he adds.

A light sprinkling of soil on the straw will prevent the wind from blowing it away. And this loosely-laid mulch will permit water drops to go through.

THE THREE new All-America glads for 1964 are shown in a single arrangement. Left to right, they are: The Snowsprite, dainty, with six or seven round, ruffled and recurved crystalline white florets that open at once in graceful, informal placement on willowy, tapering spikes; the La France, a fresh, cool, pure pink with a flower center that is creamy white, and with from seven to nine intensely ruffled florets that have a glistening texture and which all open at once; and the Blue Sapphire, the color of a summer sky and standing nearly four feet tall with six to seven of its 18 to 20 buds open at once. The All-America Gladiolus Selections began in 1956.

THE SCABIOSA is an old-fashioned flower better known as the Pincushion Flower, and very popular in Marin. The "pins" are the light-colored stamens which, in darker-colored varieties, contrast with the petal colors so they look as if stuck into a cushion. An undemanding annual, they can be planted by seed now for early spring bloom. For an earlier bloom, buy bedding plants.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

- Start thinking about the new roses which will show up in nurseries shortly. You may need to uproot some old varieties to make room for the new.
- Look for a living Christmas Tree now while supply is still good in nurseries.
- Many spring blooming bulbs are still available. They should go in the soonest.
- Shop for early-blooming camellias and azaleas now.
- Plant perennials of all kinds from nursery flats. Divide older crowded clumps of perennials in the garden.

NOVEL STEPPING STONES provide an attractive answer to the problem of too-heavy foot traffic across the lawn. For instructions on how to obtain the pattern for the cement stones see the story below.

Giant Steps To Solution Of A Lawn Care Problem

Everyone who has spent any time making a good lawn knows the importance of keeping off it after a heavy rain.

If you find it necessary to walk across your lawn to reach the garage, street or when doing any chores, protect your shoes and the lawn with the stepping stones pictured above. They not only enhance the appearance of your property, but also save many hours of lawn repairs.

The giant stepping stones are a novel, attractive and practical solution to lawn care. Inexpensive and easy to make, they'll create much conversation.

The pattern offered here tells how to make a concrete mold, and in simple, easy to follow directions, how to cast and cure this novel lawn decoration.

The scraps of wood needed to make the mold cost very little. Since many footprints can be made from one bag of cement, they cost less than 10 cents apiece.

A schoolboy can cast as many as 30 footprints from one mold in an hour's time. If you have an ambitious youngster, get him started making these for your lawn, then when the neighbors see how attractive and serviceable they are, he will be in business.

Concrete colors of many different shades can now be obtained at hardware and lumber yards. Add pink, blue, white or green to the concrete mix, and footprints can be made to match the color of your home.

Let Outdoor Lights Say Your 'Merry Christmas' This Year

One way of presenting your personal Christmas message to those who pass your house is by using lights to accent your outdoor Christmas decorations.

"Lights symbolize warmth and good cheer—the very essence of the Christmas spirit," points out Carol Vistnes, home economics consultant for Westinghouse. "By lighting up your Christmas decorations, you can offer your wishes for a 'Merry Christmas' even after dark."

SELECTION OF decorations to be used is simply a matter of personal taste, but lighting, Mrs. Vistnes cautions, "like the decorations themselves, should not be overdone. There is a correct way to accent with lights, just as there is a correct way to decorate, and there are also certain safety factors to be considered."

Whether you make your own decorations or choose ready-made ones that come complete with electric lights, Mrs. Vistnes urges that you start with a definite scheme in mind rather than hang lights indiscriminately from shrubbery to rooftop. She feels that it is best to decorate and accent with light some single feature—a chimney, a tree, a window, a door—or create an eye-appealing overall pattern with a combination of several of these.

IN OUTDOOR lighting, two general types of lights are used: Strings of lights which come in varying lengths containing from seven to 25 bulbs, and spot and floodlights which come in a variety of holders and sizes.

To accent, for example, a laurel-framed doorway, a porch pillar, a wreath, or a hedge, there is no definite rule of thumb in considering how many strings of lights are needed. It should be kept in mind, however, that the function of the lights is to highlight, not dominate, the decorations.

For the outdoor evergreen, this table is suggested as a guide in determining how many bulbs you will need:

Tree Height (feet)	Number of Lights
7	102
8	140
10	210

The lights should be strung vertically in "teepee" fashion from the top of the tree down to stakes set in the ground around the base. According to Mrs. Vistnes, "even a misshapen tree can be given symmetry and charm by the lights placed in this manner."

THE SECRET in using spot and floodlights is to accent the outdoor decorations without calling attention to the source of light. When the projector bulb is exposed, it is suggested householders shield the holder and the bulb with a piece of metal or wood against which boughs or leaves can be arranged.

For an intriguing effect, a 75 or 150-watt clear flood is recommended behind a revolving color-wheel to project changing tinted light patterns on a tree, doorway, window or house. Revolving color-wheel appliances come with a wooden ground spike to keep the unit out of mud or water.

IN ORDER TO thus make this Christmas a safe as well as beautifully-lighted one, keep in mind these simple safety hints:

Always use washer rings on all outdoor sockets to keep water from seeping into them. As an added precaution, hang the sockets downward.

There's A Trick To Washing Your Leather Gloves

There's an easy answer if you put the gloves on your hands and quickly scrub the outside with a barely damp cellulose sponge and mild soap. A sponge dishmop can, in fact, be ideal for the job.

The water, of course, should be lukewarm to cool, and the trick is to work speedily before the surface dampness can seep through to the lining. Blot off any excess moisture with a clean towel, and let the gloves dry away from the heat.

A BACKSTAGE VISIT with Irma Kuti and her trained dogs is enjoyed by Don Ameche. Miss Kuti and the dogs will be one of the featured acts at the "Hungarian State Circus" to be seen Friday at 7:30 p.m. over KRON-TV on "International Showtime." Ameche is the host for the series.

IN THE costume she wore in her role as an aerialist in "The Greatest Show On Earth," Betty Hutton will be one of many Hollywood stars who will make appearances in "The World's Greatest Showman" Sunday night. The tribute to the late Cecil B. DeMille will be carried by KRON-TV from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

GET A BUNCH OF Irishmen together, and there's going to be turmoil—especially when brothers are involved. The Clancy Brothers and Tommy Makem, the Irish folk singing stars, visit "The Danny Thomas Show" on KPIX Tuesday at 9 p.m., and a family brawl results. Left to right are Liam and Tom Clancy, Tommy Makem, Patrick Clancy, Marjorie Lord and Danny Thomas.

GIFT DEPARTMENT

We have just received some of the most beautiful lamps we have ever had in the store and must now mark them down drastically to make room.

Also, glassware, ceramics and pewter and brass from the Orient. Our entire warehouse stock of giftware must be slashed immediately.

Sorry . . .

We cannot accept exchanges during this sale. All merchandise must be sold as is and nothing can be held for future delivery.

Due to the unusual nature if this sale, we will be open Sunday 10 to 4 p.m.
